

President Has Many Suggestions For Reduction Of Crime

PLAN LAWS TO HIT ACTIVITIES OF GANGSTERS

Wickersham Reports Would Provide Legislative Action

BY JOHN F. CHESTER
Washington—(AP)—President Hoover has before him today more than 60 concrete suggestions for a simultaneous attack from all sides upon the nation's crime problem.

Each bore the seal of the Wickersham commission and represented the $300,000 two-year effort of that body to build up legal machinery to compete with modern criminality.

At least 12 of the three-score recommendations would require legislative action and one a possible constitutional amendment.

With this completed work resting upon the White House bookshelf, it was said authoritatively that President Hoover already is evolving a plan for strengthening federal law enforcement activity. Gangster, racketeer and professional criminal would fall within the scope of this plan, which will be influenced and doubtless by the mass of data laid before him by the commission he appointed.

Should the president confine himself entirely within the range of the Wickersham recommendations, some of the possibilities would be these:

Economy would be gained in the administration of criminal justice through the expenditure of more money since the annual expenditure to this end of around $247,000,000 "is of less economic importance than the losses inflicted by the criminal."

Congress would begin the consideration of a revised code of criminal procedure, seeking to remedy a constitutional finding of "far too many loopholes of escape for the guilty person" and too many "technicalities favorable to the accused" existing in the present code.

Police Corruption.

Widespread alliances reported between "criminal" and "police" extending their power over the police forces in many metropolitan areas, would be acted against. Legislation or a constitutional amendment would be adopted to allow judges and prosecutors to follow the commission suggestions that they be allowed to comment "on the failure of the accused to testify," aimed at reducing the reported usage of third degree methods to obtain testimony.

In addition, if the commission suggestions are followed, more money will be expended upon prosecution; more adequate compensation will be given to judges and jurors; docket procedure will be improved to provide more speedy trials; waivers of jury trials will be encouraged and the functions of the grand jury curtailed.

Would Study Rackets

There would be a nation-wide, thorough and scientific study of racketeering and organized extortion, carried forward despite warning by commission experts that such inquiry would be "highly dangerous" to the investigators.

Commission members found that "the present prison system is antiquated and inefficient," that it does not reform the criminal and "fails to protect society."

A new type of penal institution would be provided in which iron bars would play a smaller part, save for the hardened few, where work would be provided for all, education stressed and the sick, insane and drug addicted segregated.

The members found that "brutal disciplinary measures have no justification" in prisons and said "we recommend they be forbidden by law."

Parole must be considered as the best means yet devised for releasing men from confinement," the commission said in recommending its extension.

Use Parole System

"No man should be sent to prison until it is definitely determined that he is not a fit subject for parole."

Such recommendations, in addition to those for gathering criminal statistics upon a nation-wide scale, for "a thorough overhauling of our criminal laws" and for the creation of a judicial body outside the present immigration forces to hear the appeals of aliens, do not include steps already taken upon the commission's suggestion.

Word already has come from the justice department that legislation is being prepared to carry out the commission recommendation that

BULL RUNS WILD, HOLDS UP CRACK TRAIN IN STATION

Pittsburgh—(AP)—A bull broke away from the Pennsylvania yards early today, charged into the train shed, delayed the crack Cincinnati limited and tore up hundreds of laws before it was killed by a police radio scout car.

A patrolman was gored when officers attempted to drive the animal from the tunnel which runs under the city to the pan-handle tracks.

The limited was detained when railroad officials warned passengers not to board or leave the train while redcaps, police and trainmen tried to drive the animal from the station.

ADVOCATES PRIVATE OPERATION OF PLANT

Memphis, Tenn.—(AP)—Private operation of Muscle Shoals plant for fertilizer manufacture was recommended here last night by W. F. McFarland, Florence, Ala., chairman of a subcommittee of the Muscle Shoals commission.

Following a hearing by the subcommittee yesterday, he predicted the commission would recommend lease of the project to private interests as a solution to the ten-year-old problem of its disposal.

Lachlan Macleay, of St. Louis, secretary of the Mississippi Valley association, urged quick disposition of Muscle Shoals as a means of speeding up flood control on the Mississippi and improving navigation.

The government "be empowered to withdraw from the prosecution of juveniles."

Steps also are pending in the coming congress to carry out one of the commission's earliest suggestions for the revision of section 29 of the Volstead act relating to fruit juices, substituting "a fixed alcoholic content" for the present requirement of "intoxicating in fact."

Should President Hoover desire to go still further, reaching beyond the recommendations of the commission as a whole into the suggestions of individual members and experts, he would find ground for the creation of a federal "institute of human research" to determine the causes of crime, and the extension of employment bureaus instead of prisons.

WOOD PREPARES FOR SPEED BOAT RACES

Says He Is Not Building New Craft but Will Rely on Changes in Old One

Detroit—(AP)—Gar Wood is not building a new speedboat to defend the Harmsworth trophy against Kaye Don, British speed king. In making this known today, Wood revealed he will depend upon his Miss America IX and Miss America VIII "with some alterations."

The alterations are to include super-charges on the Miss America IX's two 12-cylinder motors. What changes are to be made in Miss America VIII were not disclosed. A foot and six inches also have been added to the hulls of the two hydroplanes, making them 29 feet six inches long, compared with 34 feet six inches of Miss England II, which Don will pilot in the race.

Wood explained the hulls had been lengthened to obtain better distribution of weight and to make room for the installation of super-chargers.

"The ninth with half the horsepower of Miss England II," Wood said, "has traveled within seven miles an hour of that boat's best speed. 'We don't have to build a new boat; what we needed was more power—and we've got that.'"

Don expects to give his challenging craft a workout over the Harmsworth course tomorrow. With the craft which was brought across the river from Canada yesterday comes 16 cases of spare parts, intended for forestal elimination by accident. Incidentally there also are five tons of gasoline and oil of special formula that will be used when Don pits his 110-mile-an-hour English craft against wood's two Miss America's whose new speed remains to be determined.

PAPER PLANT TO ADOPT FIVE-DAY WORKING WEEK

Wisconsin Rapids—(AP)—Officials of the Consolidated Paper and Paper company, Wisconsin's largest manufacturers of newsprint, today announced a five-day week would be put into effect as a permanent labor policy at the company's Wisconsin Rapids and Biron plants.

The order affects about 700 employees. Officials said the move was made as an unemployment measure and would prevent the laying off of laborers. Through the five-day week, they said, the company would retain all past employees and would be able to hire a few in addition. The mills will operate on 24-hour shifts.

Officials said that if other industries adopted similar labor policies, he was of the opinion unemployment waves would be abolished.

FIRE FIGHTERS ON ALERT IN WIDE AREA

Six Hundred Men Compose
Force Which Battle Flames
in West

Boise, Idaho—(AP)—More than 600 fire fighters, including 100 Idaho national guardsmen, were on the alert today for signs of new outbreaks of forest fires which have beaten them back to the doorsteps of their homes in villages and ranches in the Boise basin.

When a full moon last night forecasters reported all mining towns in the vicinity were safe, at least for the time being, but were unable to give the same assurance to ranchers.

The fighters, weary from their long battle, fought the flames to a standstill at the edge of Pioneerville, but a high wind, described as the hardest since the fires began their destructive sweep a week ago, shot the fire between Pioneerville and Grimes Pass. It cut off power from Pioneerville and Centerville and almost encircled Grimes Pass.

Town Threatened

Corbin, R. C.—(AP)—Except for its able-bodied men folk, this mining town was deserted today as forest fires threatened to raze its buildings. More than 200 women and children were evacuated by train and automobile as the wind-blown flames approached the edge of the settlement.

Four hundred miners stayed to battle the fires and attempt to save from destruction homes of the town's 700 citizens. Late last night several houses had been destroyed and the railway round house burned. A train stood by to carry out the grimy firemen should the flames be come uncontrollable. Fires raged throughout the whole Corbin district fanned by a strong northeast wind.

The physique, clothing and cleanliness of the children are at least a hundredfold better than they were 30 years ago, and at least 50 per cent better than they were eleven years ago, and the infantile death-rate has decreased by one-half since 1909, a scientist reports.

MARSH FIRES CAUSE DAMAGE IN MAINE TOWN

County Officials' Attention Called to Danger of Forest Fires

When town of Maine farmers appealed to Sheriff John Lappen recently for aid in putting out a marsh fire burning in the bottomlands there, the attention of county officials was focused on forest, grass and bottomland fires.

The fire in the town of Maine has been burning for months, underneath the surface of a swamp. Several cows were burned when they wandered into the marsh and broke through the surface. The fire covering an area estimated at about 200 acres, was approaching several farmers' homes when they appealed to the sheriff for aid. The sheriff in turn referred the appeal to the town chairman, Arthur Bergsbaken. He engaged several men to dig a ditch about the burning area to prevent its spreading.

It is possible, when driving through the country, to find dozens of places where fires have started at the roadside, usually from a discarded cigar or match, casually thrown from a passing car. Other fires, it will be found, were started by careless hunters. Aside from the damage caused to the woods and lands, there is always danger of loss of farm buildings and even of human life, farmers point out.

While grass fires are not so spectacular as so-called forest fires, nevertheless, it has been found that the damage they do is incalculable. When a grass fire has passed the average person scarcely believes that any damage has been done to trees, because the leaves may still be green and apparently healthy. These fires, however, strike at the life of the tree as surely as the "top-fire" or forest fire.

Flames Sear Bark. The flames sear the bark about the base of the tree trunk and after a few days or weeks, the leaves began to wither and fall. The following spring these trees stand out with stark branches and trunks, attesting to the devastating damage of the grass fire.

Sometimes, the farmers declare, grass fires develop into what is known as ground fires, the type which is now burning in the town of Maine. A smaller area is burning in the town of Liberty. These fires travel more slowly than a grass or forest fire, but they travel as surely. Because the flames often are far underground it is difficult to fight this type of blaze. Large quantities of water, enough to soak through the ground and quench the flames, are said to be the only effective method of fighting such flames. But usually water in such quantities is not available where these fires occur.

As a result fire is burned out of the ground, often to a depth of several feet, leaving nothing but ashes and barren soil behind. Cattle sometimes wander onto burning areas, which show no signs of fire on the surface, break through into the flames below and perish.

In the northern part of the state the conservation commission has organized a forestry department equipped for fighting fires as well as for reforesting cut-over and burned-over lands.

Organize Districts. The country is divided into districts averaging 1,200,000 acres in size and equipped with ton and half-ton trucks provided with fire-fighting equipment such as pumps, hose, shovels, picks, etc. A new type consisting of a truck and trailer and equipped with a 300 gallon per minute centrifugal water pump has also been provided for use in the central part of the state where ground or peat fires occur. It is believed to be the best equipment available for fighting such fires. The unit is so designed that there can be one outlet carrying 1,500 feet of two and one-half inch hose, or two outlets supplying water to 750 feet each of two and one-half inch hose. It is also possible by the use of reducing Siamese couplings to take two leads of one and one-half inch hose from each of the other leads. This makes it possible to have four nozzle ends in use when the unit can be placed close to the fire. Throughout the drainage districts there are drainage ditches from which the water supply will be obtained, though as a result of the prolonged drought that source of supply is more likely to fail than would be the case in normal years.

MAN DIES WHEN CAR HITS ROAD EXCAVATION

Margnette, Mich. (AP)—Apparent- ly only slightly bruised when his automobile turned over near here after striking a highway excavation. Wilfred Beaudry, 33, succumbed to injuries at a hospital late yesterday.

Charges that there were no danger signals posted were being investigated by authorities. Workmen were repairing a railroad crossing at the point.

Three Marquette residents, Lowell Price, James Gottschalk and Milton Everson, whose automobile turned over at the same point shortly after Beaudry's mishap, were only slightly injured.

CLAIM MRS. M'CORMICK OWES DEBT OF $300

Chicago (AP)—A suit was on file today in which radio station WCFL, Chicago, sought $200 from Mrs. Ruth Emma McCormick, unsuccessful candidate for the U. S. senate ship last November. The suit charged that she contracted to use $300 worth of time on the German hour of the station, paid $100 and neglected to pay the rest.

MOST BARRICADES IN CITY ARE DOWN

River-dr and Anna-st Opened to Traffic Tuesday Morning

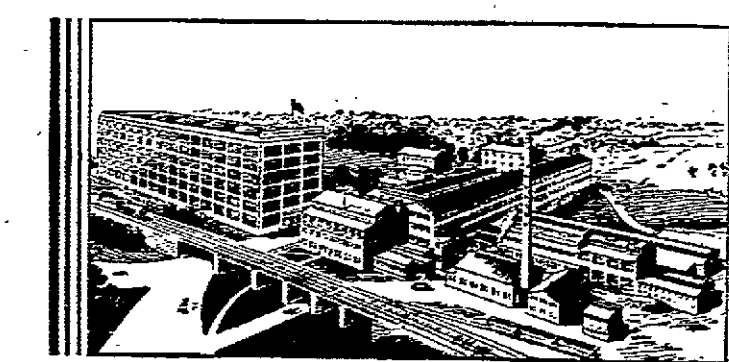

With the opening of River-dr and Anna-st, recently paved, Tuesday morning, practically all barricades in the city are down. The only streets now closed to traffic are S. Oneida-st and the Lawrence-st. Although the section of South River-st, from Lawrence-st to Jefferson-st, where an 8-inch water main is being laid, is torn up considerably a narrow winding lane through sand piles, open trenches, red lanterns and barricades makes one way traffic possible.

Street department workers started pouring the footings for the retaining wall at the foot of the Lawrence-st hill Tuesday morning. After this is completed the grading of the hill will begin.

The resurfacing of S. Oneida-st, will be a slower process than was at first expected, as it has been discovered that many water mains, manholes and sections of pavement base must be repaired, before the bitulithic can be poured.

Interim Committee Sets Up Program For Relief Of Jobless

REPORT DROP IN NUMBER OF MEN HOLDING JOBS

Secretary Also Tells of Cuts in Wages and Hours of Employment

Madison—(AP)—The interim committee on employment continued its sessions here today after adopting a program submitted by A. J. Altmeier, executive secretary, at yesterday's meeting.

The program which Mr. Altmeier, secretary of the state industrial commission, formulated for the committee was as follows:

- Establishment of a permanent unemployment research agency.
- Development of local relief methods.
- Expansion and improvement of public employment offices.
- Extension of child labor restrictions.
- Development of old age pensions.
- Creation of a public works planning commission.
- Plans for immediate relief.
- Extension of legal restrictions on hours of labor.
- Unemployment insurance.

Decrease Shown

Mr. Altmeier said the number of factory employees has decreased 22 per cent since 1929 and that payrolls have declined 43 per cent. Payroll trade has declined 11 per cent during the same period and building construction 37 per cent, Mr. Altmeier said. Ten state employment offices last January reported a total of 230 applicants per 100 jobs and last month 188 per 100 jobs, he said.

According to the secretary, there are 78,000 entirely unemployed in the manufacturing field and 55,000 in non-manufacturing enterprises. The average weekly hours, he said, have declined 16 per cent and the equivalent of 200,000 persons are unemployed if part time employment is considered. About 890,000 wage earners are employed one-fourth of the time, Mr. Altmeier said.

The average number of hours worked in 1931 per week is 43.5 as compared with 51.3 in 1929, he said. About 54.3 per cent of the workers work eight hours or less per day, 47.3 per cent five days a week or less, 10 per cent four days a week or more, 27 per cent nine to 10 hours or more, and 1.6 per cent more than 10 hours.

The weekly loss in wages at the present time was estimated by Mr. Altmeier at $6,000,000.

Mr. Altmeier forecast the necessity for spending at least $12,000,000 for relief in 1931. About $5,000,000 was spent for this purpose last year. The state tax commission, said 10 cities in Wisconsin have exceeded the legal maximum rate of taxation. He said the cities were Adams, Antigo, Crandon, Ladysmith, Marinette, Medford, Mellen, Owen, Phillips and Washburn.

Shanties have more than a nine mill tax while three have exceeded the 10 mill legal maximum, Mr. Blough told the committee. Three of 154 cities in the state have exceeded the legal 5 per cent of the assessed valuation in bonded indebtedness and 13 are over 4 per cent. Mr. Blough gave this information for the state tax commission, said 10 cities in Wisconsin have exceeded the legal maximum rate of taxation. He said the cities were Adams, Antigo, Crandon, Ladysmith, Marinette, Medford, Mellen, Owen, Phillips and Washburn.

CHURCHES NEAR RESUMPTION OF FALL SCHEDULE

Plans Put Forward for Entertainment of Wisconsin Conference

Dams, was elected day delegate to the convention Sunday morning, with Elmer Root as alternate. The Social Union will open its fall activities Tuesday afternoon. Dr. Holmes preached Sunday on As I Lay on the Ground. Basing his sermon on Jacob's dream of the ladder to Heaven, he pointed out that just as the ladder in Jacob's dream stretched to Heaven but was rooted firmly in the ground, so should religion reach toward Heaven, but be lived on earth.

Breilung, Mrs. Julius Homblette, Miss Hattie Luebbers and Mrs. Lillian Knoke of Trinity English Lutheran church will attend the annual Sunday School convention of the Wisconsin conference of the Northwest synod at Waterloo Friday and Saturday. ROUTINE BUSINESS AT HIGHWAY MEETING

The highway commission yesterday discussed the new bridge to be constructed on highway 76 over the Embarras river. The bridge is a state project and bids will be received by the state highway office at Green Bay on Sept. 4.

Two types of bridges are being considered. One is a 180-foot high truss span, while the other is a two 75-foot plate girder spans. A high truss span type bridge was disapproved by the county several weeks ago and the state was asked to re-advertise for bids.

DEATH TAKES JOHN CONWAY, HOTEL OWNER

Highway Commission Considered Him "Father of Good Roads" in State

"force clause" which later was declared unconstitutional after a legal battle between the town of Grand Chute and a group of private citizens headed by Mr. Conway.

The force clause provided that if a citizen refused to supply a sum of money for the improvement of the roads, the town and county must appropriate similar amounts, the total to be used on the road.

The sum of $6,000 was raised by Mr. Conway and a group of citizens to improve roads in Grand Chute which were notoriously bad. The town officers refused to supply a similar amount and the town chairman and treasurer were removed from office under a court action, brought by Mr. Conway and his group. Later, in 1914, the state supreme court reversed this decision and declared the force clause was unconstitutional.

Continued Campaign

Then Mr. Conway formed a Good Roads association and started a movement to have the county bond itself for $700,000 to build 100 miles of nine-foot concrete. Mr. Conway personally conducted the campaign and stumped the county waging a battle in favor of the bond issue.

He talked at scores of meetings throughout the county. The bond issue was adopted and Outagamie county was the first county in the state or nation to bond itself for concrete highway.

This county's lead soon was followed by other counties and Mr. Conway gave his personal assistance in many of their bond issue fights.

Mr. Conway was active in the organization and administration of the Wisconsin Good Roads association and served various official capacities with that organization.

Helped Hospital Drive

He was one of the instigators of the movement to erect St. Elizabeth hospital, and during the drive was one of the most active workers in the subscription campaign.

Mr. Conway, a life member of the Elks lodge, was a member of the group that brought about the organization of the local club in 1896.

He and J. A. Harnes, and the late Herman Erb, Jr., Peter R. Thom, M. C. Gochnauer, Joseph Spitz, C. A. Burke, R. M. Mitchell, T. B. Reid, J. C. Kervin, C. H. Benton and W. B. Murphy, were charter members. He was on the board of directors of the Wisconsin Hotel Men's association at one time, and was a member of the National hotel men's organization and the Wisconsin chapter of the Greeters' association of America.

Survivors are the widow, Jane; one son, John Jr., and two sisters, Mrs. George Woelz and Mrs. Katherine Belue, both of Appleton.

The body will be taken from the Schommer funeral home to the Conway home Thursday morning. The funeral will be held at the home at 8:30 Friday morning, with services at 9 o'clock at St. Mary church. Burial will be in St. Mary cemetery.

PARIS IS DIRTY CITY, BUT WITH CERTAIN CHARM

England Pleasant Country, Meeting Says in Describing Tour

A G. Meeting, superintendent of Outagamie schools, presented the highlights of the Educational European trip sponsored by him this summer, at the weekly noon luncheon of the Lions club at Conway hotel.

Mr. Meeting declared that the group found England to their liking, the French language hard to understand. Paris is a "dirty city with a certain charm, and the economical situation in both countries is wholly different. He discussed the unique municipal building program in Liverpool, the system of tipping in France, as well as points of interest during the journey.

"The economic situation in England is parallel to that of the United States," he said "with general unemployment and many of the same conditions. The English social system is one of the causes of the present situation there. In contrast, France is a country of employment, explained by the fact that everything is done by hand. There is no improved machinery in France, and even roads are built by laborers, who mix their materials by hand and carry them in wheelbarrows."

He explained that the trip itself was conceived after Mr. More's tour to Washington, D. C. More than 1,152 persons went to Washington then, and last spring when several had made the eastern journey the second time, they expressed the desire to go to Europe. After several months of interviewing representatives of steamship companies and railroads, Mr. Meeting arranged the summer tour of 34 days of travel for 331 people at the cost of $7.48 per day.

Wide Age Range

The ages of the European group ranged from 14 to 82, all traveling third class as a group. The party left Appleton for Sault Ste. Marie from where they went to Montreal. The party consisted of members of the club to visit the Sault Ste. Marie locks, which he expressed as the "wonderland locks of travel." The tonnage that went through those northern locks was considerably more last year than the combined tonnage of the Panama and Suez canal," he explained.

Montreal greeted the tourists their first stop with a foreign "people," he said, "but the Montreal French were found to be entirely different in taste and custom from the real French. When the party arrived on ship the cabins and berths seemed awfully small at first."

He told of the one dangerous part of the journey when the ship struck a dense bank of fog and the vessel was driven to the rocks. The party was forced to drift downstream, according to navigation ruling. He described the fog as an immense wall that cut them off from the entire world. The ship nearly collided with another boat in the fog, but the constant vigilance of the captain saved the boat from any damage. The second boat grazed against the side of the vessel one night, and nothing else happened.

The party arrived three days in the fog, letting the current carry them to the sea as the fog horn sounded its way past Belle Isle and the bay territory. Mr. Meeting spoke of the gentleness of the ocean, saying that he had seen higher waves on Lake Winnebago.

Irish Isles Beautiful

The Scottish islands and the Irish isles presented a picture of beautiful scenery that springs from a land of fogs and rain, he said. He praised the beauty spots in England and Scotland, especially the beauty of the inlets, the River Clyde and Glasgow lakes.

The building program in Liverpool interested him, especially the manner in which this city is ridding itself of its tenements. As the tenement houses are torn down new apartment buildings are put in their place, finally making the city a livable place. He mentioned an installment system of payment, the first money being paid after the first floor has been completed and inspected, the second installment with the next floor and the last when the roof of the apartment house has been completed. Mr. Meeting said that this building project keeps going on all of the time, since the contractors begin laying the foundation for a second house as soon as the first floor of the previous one has been constructed. The rents for these modern apartments are about $14 or $15 a month.

The travelers found the English people very courteous, and helpful. The chief trouble in England was with the money system, but since the group found the people essentially honest they learned the habit of holding out a handful of change and letting their merchant choose the money he demanded. The travelers found Broadway circus, Hyde park, the London tower and Buckingham palace without little trouble. They were especially impressed with the guard changing ceremonies at the palace wall, realizing that the English are holding to a tradition.

French Music Loving

In Paris it was found that the people in general are music loving and even the ordinary Frenchman is familiar with good music. Mr. Meeting pointed out that parks seem to be planned for concerts which are well attended. No highways are near them and the audiences are attentive and extremely quiet during frequent concerts. In France, tipping is demanded rather than expected and customers must pay well for any sort of service. Paris itself was found to be dirty, shabby and far overestimated.

The group of 331 persons on the trip was from 11 states. While the group was on the boat, they presented an evening concert, which was given by Mr. Meeting on the way to Europe. They had complete run of the tourist or second class deck.

START MOVE TO AID THOUSANDS IN FLOOD AREA

Chinese Government Plans to Spend $10,000,000 for Foodstuffs

Shanghai—(AP)—The government moved today to aid the tens of millions of flood victims in central China.

T. V. Soong, chairman of the flood relief committee and minister of finance, said the government is contemplating cash purchases of foodstuffs, in addition to credit purchases, to the extent of about $50,000,000 Mexican ($10,000,000 gold). He declared the government must assume the responsibility for about $50,000,000 Mexican for immediate relief requirements.

Soong pointed out, however, that owing to the severity of crop and property damage, the expenditure of even $100,000,000 Mexican ($20,000,000 gold) would hardly be sufficient to furnish necessities of life for the flood victims.

The Associated Press learned that the Chinese government intends to address a new request to Washington, seeking more liberal terms in connection with the proposed sale of 15,000,000 bushels of wheat to China by the United States farm board.

Previous negotiations for the wheat encountered a wide divergence of terms asked and offered. The Chinese proposed a ten year credit and "liberal terms" with respect to interest, while the farm board countered with a proposal for four and one-half per cent interest and payment within two and one-half to four and one-half years.

Meanwhile Hankow, center of the flood area, entered its second stage of privation today when the state supply failed. Additional supplies must be floated to the city down the Yangtze river from above the flood area. Since the vegetable supply was exhausted several days ago, the populace has been depending upon grain.

Hankowites also were apprehensive of destruction of the city by a typhoon, the forerunner of which, a strong wind, was whipping what remained of the once important Yangtze river port.

Undermined foundations of Hankow, and also of Wuchang and Han-yang, the tri-cities that comprise the Wuhan area, would be certain to collapse under the added attack of a storm.

More than 400,000 hunger-crazed refugees continued to cling to the hills back of Wuchang, suffering the pangs of hunger, their limbs distorted from drinking the rancid flood waters, and herded together like so many sheep.

Kuomintang Agency reports said more than 3,000 of these refugees perished when a fresh break appeared in a dyke holding back the Yangtze.

LINDBERGH PREPARE FOR HOP TO TOKYO

Government Won't Question Pair About Reported Illegal Landings

Nemuro, Japan—(AP)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, resting here in preparation for the conclusion tomorrow of their flight to Tokyo, found time today for sightseeing and gained friendship of the native inhabitants by expressing a likeness for sashimi or raw fish.

Sashimi was served Monday at a dinner given in their honor by Mayor Andos. It is eaten dipped in black soy bean sauce with plenty of finely grated horseradish.

In connection with the Lindberghs' liking for the food, vernacular newspapers recalled that Alice Roosevelt, now the widow of Nicholas Longworth, former speaker of the house of representatives, was delighted with the dish when she visited Japan in 1905.

She ate sashimi at every opportunity and once, it was reported, quickly called for water because of a mouthful of unusually strong horseradish.

The Lindberghs unconsciously put one over today on Nemuro.

When the program for their entertainment was arranged two weeks ago, it was believed they would stay here only one day and plans were made accordingly. With that program over, the Lindberghs had to do to themselves.

In the morning, Colonel Lindbergh tuned up the plane's motor in preparation for the hop tomorrow to Tokyo while Mrs. Lindbergh took a three-mile automobile ride and visited the Ochilishi Radio station at the invitation of Takeji Kathira, chief of the station.

She compared notes with the radio operators with whom she had been communicating more or less since the hop from Nome, Alaska. It was explained that she could hear Ochilishi signals soon after the take off from Nome, but Ochilishi was unable to hear Mrs. Lindbergh until the plane was at some distance from the Alaska point.

Plane Damaged

The Lindbergh plane showed the effects of the severe buffeting it took from the waves off Ketoi island, in the central Kuriles, and while being towed 15 miles from Ketoi to Muroran bay by a Japanese government steamer.

The plane's condition was not believed so serious as to prevent a take-off for the Khabarovsk navy base, near Tokyo, tomorrow. The Lindbergh flight officially ends at Kasmigara, although the couple will later visit China. The colonel said he had no intention at present of making a world flight, nor did he plan to visit the Philippines.

The Lindberghs arrived here early yesterday after a 50-mile flight from Kanashiri island, southernmost of the Kuriles. Kanashiri was the last of four places at which they were forced down en route from Petro-pavlovsk, Kamchatka, to this town.

Reports that the government contemplated questioning the fliers about the descents, all of which appeared along the Kurile island chain, were quickly repudiated by high officials at Tokyo.

Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, Jr., fliers, recently were fined heavily for photographing fortified Japanese areas while flying to Tokyo from Khabarovsk, Siberia.

PROVES STRENGTH OF COOPERATIVE CONTRACT

The strength of the Consolidated Badger Cooperative contracts was proved in court at Shawano recently when H. E. Jahnke, owner and proprietor of the Five Corners cheese plant, was requested to accept milk belonging to contract holders of the Badger Cooperative. Judge E. V. Wedner heard the case.

It was claimed that Jahnke had formerly attempted to get customers of the Badger Cooperative, and that he refused to return Cooperative members' milk after being notified by executives of the Badger.

Judge Wedner sustained the injunction served upon Jahnke, prohibiting him from accepting milk from contract holders of the Cooperative.

District Attorney, Sheriff Investigate Death of Victor Wichman

Investigation by Stanley Stadel, district attorney, and Sheriff John Lappen into the shooting of Victor Wichman, 9-year-old son of Edward Wichman, town of Osborn farmer Monday, by an older brother revealed that it was accidental.

It was learned the older Wichman had just cleaned the .22 calibre rifle and had loaded it preparatory to going out of doors. Victor happened to be standing in front of the weapon when it was accidentally discharged. The shot entered his left temple.

The boy was placed in a casket by the attending physician and taken to a Green Bay hospital, but he died on the way.

BY-PRODUCT OF PRESENT SLUMP IS EFFICIENCY

Investors Also Learn to Exercise Far Greater Caution

BY CARLTON A. SHIVELY
Copyright, 1931, by Cons. Press
Wall Street, New York—(CPA)—
A by-product of business depression making up, to some extent, for the losses in general, is increased efficiency of labor and business management, and greater caution on the part of investors.

With the more immediate question of the "standstill" agreement on bank acceptances and other short term German and Hungarian credits disposed of New York bankers are overhauling the whole matter of foreign credit procedure. They are planning to make sure that in future acceptances of foreign banks dealt in there shall be strictly bona fide transactions to finance specific business operations. Plans for procedure and technique which they are drawing up doubtless will be brought in due course to the attention of the federal reserve board.

The most interesting suggestion made in this matter is that of a guarantee on the part of the ultimate user or group of users of a foreign credit to make payment in the event that, whether through suspension of the accepting bank or other reason, the bill is not met at maturity. Such an agreement, if insisted upon, would give a security additional to the name and obligation of the foreign accepting bank.

Scheme Passes Test
Incidentally, this scheme of guaranty has been tried and passed its test. The bill taken up despite recent German banking difficulties. The plan also might involve the guaranty of both foreign accepting bank and the user of the credit that the money would be used for the purpose intended and that bills originating under it were not finance bills or mere money raising documents.

Finance bills, which have frequently masqueraded as acceptances based on goods in storage or in transit, are not eligible for discount at the federal reserve banks. It is no great secret that some of the bills taken in good faith by member banks here on the name of the foreign bank and duly rediscounted or sold to the federal reserve banks, were in effect bills closely resembling the forbidden type.

Neither the local federal reserve bank nor the federal reserve board has taken action on this subject. It is therefore generally assumed that the subject is one which should be corrected from within by the member banks themselves and by bill traders. It is impracticable for every acceptance bill to have numerous documents attached and it is equally so for the federal reserve banks to inquire into the history, antecedents and legality of every bill offered it with member bank endorsement in the course of the day's business. This has been the suggestion of some superficial commentators.

Action by American banks and by the federal reserve authorities on reformation of banking acceptance practice doubtless would be followed by foreign reprisals. Such a probability is not regarded with alarm by bankers here. Their attitude is one of willingness that foreign banks be just as particular as American banks and to require just as severe restrictions on issue and use of American bills. Since resort to American acceptance financing today by foreign users of credits is one of necessity and business rather than of favor, there is little fear that the imposition of reasonable restrictions upon such foreign financing, in the interest of maintaining the high character of the market, will take business from here. British bankers are very prudent in their bill business and in some respects have looked with disfavor at American practices.

Caution Parents To Permit Child To Help Himself

Washington — (AP) — September's school bell will ring out the old, ring in the new, in sending children to school if the children's bureau has its way.

Gone will be the patient mother who washes little faces, combs a half dozen heads of hair, buttons clothes and laces shoes.

All these things, bureau experts claim, even a four-year-old can do for himself, given a convenient haircut, buttons in front, and big enough button-holes.

Instead of doing things for the child that he could learn to do for himself, the proper parent will devote home attention to how Junior will psychologically fit into the school regime, the bureau sets forth.

Mother is admonished to stop and think what kind of mind her child has, using these questions: Is he very bright? Is he quick but careless. Is he slow but careful? Is he quick with his head but slow with his hands? Is he slow with his head but quick with his hands? Is he slow in every way?

"You must know these things," the bureau emphasizes. "If he is not so bright as Johnny, remember that is not his fault. Do not say, 'Why can't you be like Johnny?' He will get discouraged and stop trying."

"Or you may be afraid your child will think he is smart and want to 'show off' because he is bright. So you tell him he is stupid. That is bad too. He will believe you, and stop trying to learn."

Many suggestions were given by the bureau for teaching children how to be independent enough to get themselves off for school in the morning and to maintain self-respect while there:

"Give him a box to stand on in front of the wash basin so he can wash his face and hands. Mark with colored stitching the front outside of his underwear so he won't put it on backside-to and wrong-side-out. Give him clothes that are easy to put on. Let him use tools. Try to make him think for himself."

"When he finds that something is hard to do, do not say before him, 'he takes after me.' I never could learn to jump' or 'he takes after his father. He breaks everything he tries to fix.' When you say this, you are teaching him that it is of no use to try. Probably he could do it very well after a little while if you let him try."

11,726 GIVEN WORK ON BADGER HIGHWAYS
(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)
BY RUBI A. BLACK
Washington—A total of 11,726 workers were given employment on state highways in Wisconsin during July, according to the President's Emergency Committee for Employment.

The committee announces work on 603 miles of Badger roads was contracted for at a price of $6,328,305 during the month of July.

The committee's report is made from an estimate drawn up by W. C. Markham, executive secretary of the American Association of State Highway Officials. He finds 254,414 workers employed in 35 states on road work during July and of this he says:

"The reports covering the month of July show that contracts for roads are continuing strong even beyond the midyear. The Federal Emergency loan of $30,000,000 has already been absorbed in contracts, and the contracts made by the states in July are irrespective of that fund. These contracts are evidence that work on roads will continue late in the fall and that men will be kept actively at work as long as weather permits."

London — George Curtis has given up his plow and now opines that the pen is mightier than both the sword and the plow. Now that play, "Retribution," has been accepted for production by a big theatre at an early date.

CHINA AND GOVERNMENT WHEAT

Among the many suggestions offered concerning disposal of surplus wheat is one from John E. Baker, an American engineer who is adviser to the Ministry of Railways in Nanking. Ten million persons in Central China are facing immediate famine and starvation, with many other millions in certain later need, by reason of the floods in the Yangtze. Mr. Baker proposed that the American Farm board sell, on long-term credits, this wheat to China, where the need is for five million bushels per month for the next six months.

The sense of this proposal was that, besides feeding the hungry and saving lives, it would lessen a standing threat to the American wheat market. Storage charges for these millions of bushels would end and room be made for the new crop.

The unsettled conditions in China cause apprehension as to her future ability or inclination to pay, but the chance of loss is no greater than would result from carrying this large store of impounded wheat in an already glutted market and with storage charges rapidly wiping out the investment.

With respect to payment, a supplementary proposal has been suggested that, instead of selling on unduly lenient credits, the wheat be exchanged for silver, another commodity glutting the world's markets, and of which China has a large supply.

This country needs no silver, but it can be cheaply stored. Being an imperishable commodity, at its present highly depreciated value, it would be an excellent "swap" for wheat even at the low price of fifty cents a bushel.

That this wheat be destroyed, as some suggest, is a proposal which would arouse bitter and vindictive emotions among the impoverished and unemployed of the world.

Sold to China on any basis no one could be worse off at present and many millions might be helped permanently, with no end of good both to the East and the West.

THE SCHNEIDER CUP RACE

As time approaches for the Schneider Cup race, the international air speed classic which is to be held in England next month, many Americans will regret that this country is not a participant.

American naval planes won this race in 1923 and again in 1925. Since then the United States has held aloof principally because no funds have been available for the experimental work necessary in the development of high speed racing planes.

England, Italy and France have entered planes this year. Advance information indicates that speed well above four hundred miles per hour may be expected.

Last year one of the British machines attained a speed of over three hundred fifty-seven miles per hour, a rather startling contrast to the American official record which stands today at two hundred sixty-six miles.

Why this desire for excessive speed? The answer is essentially militaristic. American commercial planes are faster than those of Europe, but our military aircraft have been developed with serious consideration for the factor of safety, so that in the matter of speed we are lagging behind the leading European powers.

Speed is the one sound reason for the existence of aviation, particularly so in military air tactics. To those "shock troops" of the air in the future, the advantage will lie with those having the greatest mobility and speed. The battle, according to the famous Southern cavalry commander, is won by the leader "that gets that fastest with the mostest men"—and guns.

High-speed research and competition are producing remarkable results in Europe. If we are to keep pace in aviation with the rest of the world we, too, must devote ourselves to such a program.

Congress has recently appropriated two hundred thousand dollars to build a new type of high speed motor. This is only one-fifth of the amount England expended for one motor for the 1930 Schneider Cup race. But perhaps we have made a start and will be a factor in future speed competitions.

WELL, WELL, WELL!

When the leaves begin to sear and then to fall, college football coaches come together.

Such a gathering always provokes a discussion of professional football. A recent one led Zuppke of Illinois University to declare that "my Illinois football team of last year (which, by the way, was a third rater) could play any pro-club to a standstill."

Not content with that knife thrust Mr. Zuppke opined that the last Notre Dame team "would score four touch downs on the best pro-eleven before the latter knew what was going on."

There is a simple method of deciding a controversy like this, a method that appears too simple, but it is prevented because college coaches, talking loud and vociferously but planning cleverly, have a rule which prevents their teams from playing pro teams.

This attitude of college coaches is just one of the colors of the profession, for in all professions there is more or less of that green-eyed and purpled-faced monster known as envy.

In many professions it is well concealed but in the temperamental ones it is not, and coaching is getting so temperamental.

The creator of that wonderful painting at Milan, "The Lords Supper," wouldn't speak to Michael Angelo who painted the ceiling of the Sistine chapel. Artists were always funny that way.

Sometimes this temperament stuff gets into the writing profession as evidenced by a scene at a recent New York banquet where Sinclair Lewis had his face slapped.

This fall when many different expedients will be resorted to for the creation of funds for the unemployed there will be plenty of opportunity to forget college rules for awhile and match leading college with professional teams.

Then, Mr. Zuppke will realize that he spoke out of turn and he will be the first one to take to the woods. In fact, if he has any heart at all, he couldn't bear to even watch the contest.

There seems to be a deep reason for the violence of these temperamental antics. Arch Ward, sports writer, has discovered that leading professional players are being hired to supplant college coaches. He points out that Horween, ex-Cardinal, is now at Harvard, and that Anderson and Ingwersen, ex-Bears, are head coaches at Notre Dame and Iowa respectively. To which might be added the fact that Bennie Friedman has quit the Giants to teach the college players the real deep stuff.

No wonder Zuppke lost his balance.

Opinions Of Others

MARRIAGE IN PERU

Our legislators have always shown in ratifying our laws, a fatuous levity, and a lamentable ignorance of our geography, our history and our life. It seems many times that their decisions could not easily be more objectionable to the people, or more futile in obtaining the results primarily desired, if a concerted effort were made to devise faulty, rather than beneficial laws. One of the most glaring of these defects is the omission in the law concerning civil marriages of a fixed charge for this requirement. Any town or district in Piura department, for instance, can replete its exchequer by raising the rates for such registration. The same considerations apply to the recording of divorces, and the results so far have been, especially in the remote rural districts, that many people dispense with these official endorsements. When it comes to marriage, especially, the religious ceremony is considered all that is essential, and the record of the state no longer bears witness to the validity of these unions. In localities where the law can be and is enforced, there is a notable decrease in nuptials. It is most unwise to burden those who wish to wed with the double exactions of church and state. Among the Catholics, especially, the civil registration is considered merely the rendering to Caesar that which is Caesar's, and they must have the religious sanction, too, before they can be satisfied. As these constitute much the larger part of our population, it is only a consideration due to them that the cost of civil license and registration should be made merely nominal. Such revision, and particularly a uniform fee in all the territory of the department, we believe would conduce both to a more orthodox way of living and at the same time bring larger revenues to the public treasury.—Piura (Peru), El Tiempo.

FOREIGN DEPARTMENT

Mayor Jimmy Walker of New York is in Czechoslovakia, Prague, to be exact, and is having himself no end of a good time. The people love him. They're even playing "The Sidewalks of New York" for him. Maybe Jimmy had better stay there. The last time he came back from a vacation, the populace of his home town was ready to tear him limb from limb. Maybe he'd make a good mayor of Prague.

And Count Karolyi of Hungary can't seem to form a new cabinet. Can't blame him—he never could keep those names straight either.

The lady who shot the New Jersey state senator says she "can't remember anything about it." Which just shows what a low point of insignificance the politicians have reached.

Wait until business picks up. They'll all be back to you again.

Meanwhile, Congress goes on fixing itself up. Now, when the Congressmen and Senators get back to Washington, they'll be able to park their cars anywhere as long as they want to. It's just a new piece of legislation. No mention of what Congress might do toward fixing itself up on the 18th Amendment has yet been made.

Of course, if you're just a common, ordinary citizen, you gotta obey the laws.

Maybe the legalized manufacture of beer would restore prosperity—and maybe not. But if it were brought back it would take months to find out just what beer would do for business. Yep—to get people sobered up and back to work.

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

HOW TO MAKE THE PATIENT COMFORTABLE.

The nurse's chief duty is to keep the patient comfortable or as comfortable as possible.

To insure the greatest possible comfort for a patient requires thoughtfulness and attention to many little details that amateur nurses scarcely comprehend at all.

Here are some of the little things that a good nurse always attends to and a poor one usually neglects:

The patient's bed should be so placed that the patient does not face a window. If the room is artificially lighted the lamp should be out of direct sight of the patient, and at night or when the patient needs sleep the light should be dimmed or shaded. When the patient is awake he or she may enjoy gazing out of a window, particularly if there is a pleasant prospect, but the bed should be rolled around so that the patient will face another way when the window gazing becomes tiresome.

Medicines or utensils or food or dishes must never be permitted to remain in the patient's sight when not in use. The surest mark of a sloppy incompetent, poorly trained nurse is a collection of junk, relics, reminders on a table or stand in the sick room.

A nurse with the welfare of her patient at heart never whispers in or near the sick room or permits relatives, visitors or inconsiderate strangers to do so.

Simple soap and water cleanliness, with proper ventilation and as much sunshine as may be available, will prevent odors about the sick room. There is no excuse for unloosening "disinfectants" or "antiseptics." If a deodorant or a disinfectant is necessary in any case, the attending physician will prescribe the proper agent. A good nurse does not take it upon herself to introduce such remedies. For the benefit of home nurses, I might say that one of the best disinfectants for any sort of foul or dangerous discharge is common "chloride of lime" purchased in sealed tins of cans from any grocery, hardware or drug store. As a deodorant, perhaps the simplest and best is common builders' lime, which may be applied as dry powder or as "milk of lime" made by slaking enough lime with water to last a few days. This common lime, slaked or unslaked, is itself quite odorous. "Chloride of lime" (chemically chlorinated lime) has a pungent odor of chlorine gas.

Every patient confined to bed should have a daily sponge bath and a daily back rub.

A good nurse does not omit to wash the patient's face and hands immediately before every meal or feeding.

If the patient is very ill or long confined, it is important that the mouth be kept clean. Equal parts of lemon juice, glycerin and water, used as a mouth wash, will clean up a foul mouth. Simple alkaline antiseptic solution (which is a standard national formula) article any drugist can prepare cheaply) is as good as anything else for brushing the teeth and for rinsing the mouth before and after feeding, especially where the patient takes much milk.

For the sick room select the room without figures or distinct designs in the wall decoration, and preferably the walls should be painted neutral tints, never hideous white.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Laundry Work Is Healthful.

Any danger of getting syphilis by washing the clothing of one who has it? (T. M. H.)

Answer.—No. There is no good reason why disease by doing laundry work. Soap and water, or cleaning preparations used in washing, are all good disinfectants. The chlorine preparations used for whitening or bleaching impart enough chlorine gas to the atmosphere of the laundry to discourage most ordinary diseases which are communicable. Laundry workers seem extraordinarily immune to it, especially so called filth epidemic. Women who do large washings and go right out in the cold to hang the clothes, without putting any extra clothing on, are not so likely to have bronchitis or pneumonia as are women who could themselves carefully against such "sudden change." If we were to conduct a search for the healthiest, up-est physical specimen of womanhood, I think we'd find her working in a laundry or washing the spots off her own family's clothes.

Institute Hokum.

Do you know anything about the health examination service given by the . . . institute? (S. H.)

Answer.—Enough to assure you that any good doctor anywhere will give you more for about half the price. The premium you pay for the small order Hokum goes to keep up the heavy salary roll of the staff. Once again I warn readers that the practice of medicine is a personal service, and no corporation or firm or impersonal aggregation can supplant the physician, who, after all, must render the service himself.

No Joking Matter.

I would like to know just how serious . . . is. What causes it and what are the symptoms? What is the best treatment? (P. J.)

Answer.—Well, there's the tobacco, and here's a pipe, but darn yuh, furnish your own matches.

The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

THE little train was queer, indeed! Said Clowny, "Golly, all we need to do is sit right down and rest. The train will carry us to Lima, which is right nearby. Now watch the scenery we pass by. There is no roof on this train. It is like an open bus."

And then they heard a whistle shriek and, ere they had a chance to speak, a funny engine chugged their way and hitched on to their car. The Travel Man said, "That's how we are going to travel. You shall see! This sure will be a dandy trip. What lucky boys you are!"

The engine then began to puff and, when it worked up steam enough, the Tynmites began to move. "We're on our way," cried one. "I hope the train will pick up speed. A real fast ride is what we need, but even if we travel slow it will be lots of fun."

The dinky train wound here and there, and soon they saw some scenery rare. "That's Lima," said the Travel Man. "We'll be there very soon, and then we'll hike right down a street and find a dandy place to eat." Then Coppy said, "We're just in time. It's exactly noon."

They pulled into a station where the natives stood around everywhere. All of the Tynmites waved at them. The natives waved right back. Then, when they hopped right down to the ground, the little engine swung around and very slowly disappeared along the winding track.

The first street that they came to was a very pretty sight because big trees stood high on either side, with leaves that dropped down like rain. Coppy said, "It'd like to eat, but loafing here would be a treat. Let's sit here and enjoy the shade. Then on our way we'll go."

MORE ABOUT RENT

Editor Post-Crescent—As an unpaid, glad-to-help social welfare worker last winter I came in contact with a family caught in the trap. There were 7 children in the home—all below 12 years of age. The home that housed the family was neat, clean and presentable at all times. The wife and mother was neat, clean, cheerful and busy. Never before had the family needed aid of any sort. But now the husband and father was ill. He was incapacitated for at least 6 months to come.

In the spring when tree rents became a golden memory of the past, the family moved. After considerable effort, I found them—in a miserable wreck of a home. The yard where the 7 children played this summer, was paved with cinders and hemmed in by warehouses and such. The mother had become a dejected woman. The bravery, courage and trust was all gone, and identity remained that the women were one and the same.

I'm not blaming the poor commission for making an end. I realize that he was compelled. But here is what I'm getting at: Why do rents in Appleton stay up as they do? When they are way down everywhere else. What's the matter with the landlords of Appleton?

Myself. I'm a property owner, as well as a worker. In the good old past, our property was located in Appleton—rented for $45. It was worth $50. There are 3 lots—modestly landscaped—an eight room all modern house, a double garage, with concrete drive, garden and yard walks. The street is paved with brick, and we are close in.

Believe it or not—our property now rents for $27.00. The taxes last year were $163.35, on the property.

I pay $98 rent here. Nice house, half a lot and a single garage. I have a wonderful landlord. He has a pretty good renter.

What's the matter with Appleton? Is she all right?

SEE GREEK REPUBLIC

On Aug. 25, 1917, Premier Venizelos, of Greece, made a definite statement regarding the possibility of a Greek republic in the chamber of deputies at Athens.

Premier Venizelos declared that he had often told the former King Constantine that the nations of the world were gradually abolishing kingships and that it depended upon the existing kings themselves to hasten or postpone this inevitable consummation.

"The government, nevertheless," said the premier, "is of the opinion that it is our duty to give the monarchy another trial. This, of course, is a final trial, but I am sure that the Greek people and the coming Constituent Assembly will be disposed to render possible the continuation of our present system of democracy presided over by a king."

This statement was received with prolonged applause as clearly defining the government's position on the recent tendency toward a republic.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY WILLIAM GAINES

New York—Personal palaver: Donald H. Clark, who began writing books as a volume while working for a motion picture company, is making his sideline his whole occupation as he completes his novel, "Young and Healthy."

Mike (Polysyllabic) Simmons hopped to Detroit to write a picture scenario in conjunction with the author and producer. He completed the scenario in two days and returned to find there had been an addition to the Simmons family in his absence.

John Kirkland Clark, who has gained considerable fame as a prosecutor hereabouts, "flunked" the state bar examination shortly after he bid farewell to fair Harvard. Later he was to become a member of the state board of law examiners, the body which gets up the tough exams to think other would-be lawyers. (Oh, sure, eventually he got by the test himself.)

SILVER LINING

Howard Dietz, according to current report, is the highest "income" man in motion picture advertising.

In addition to his top notch salary as head of a publicity and advertising department, Dietz derives revenue from "The Band Wagon," the summer revue, and several other shows he has had a hand in authoring.

Allen, one of the droll monologists, still employs juggling occasionally as an accompaniment to his patter. It was as juggler and trickster that the former citizen of Boston got his start. For a period his "wow" stunt was holding a fork in his mouth and catching vegetables hurled by the audience.

Allen can show you a few teeth out of line as a result of that.

Charles B. Cochran, the English theatrical producer, once was impressed for a troupe of performing fleas. He got his first real start in show business as an employee of a dime museum in New York in the early '90s.

When luncheon club members get together there they familiarly refer to one of their city's outstanding advertising mediums as "Stokey."

LIFE'S ODDITIES

By George Clark

Your Birthday

WHAT TOMORROW MEANS TO YOU

"VIRGO"

If August 26th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8 a. m. to 10:10 a. m., from 1:30 p. m. to 3 p. m., and from 9 p. m. to 11 p. m. The dangers hours are from 11 a. m. to 12:35 p. m. and from 5 p. m. to 7:40 p. m.

Astrological influences on August 26th will be of an uplifting nature—stress will be laid on the spiritual side of life, and the mind will wander from workaday things. Those in public or philanthropic work will have great opportunities of service, and be able to realize some cherished ideal.

Children born on this August 26th will be good humored and friendly, born leaders, and industrious workers. They will have considerable tact and diplomacy. They will carve out their own fate, though they will meet with reverses at times.

You swell the ranks of those who believe in safety first, last and always. You may dream of great deeds and profitable adventures, but you are not prepared to pay the price by taking risks. You are by nature fitted for the work of a conscientious and reliable subordinate. You are too self-conscious and timid to make a real leader. You will try to improve your position by easy stages, and will never attempt to climb the ladder of success by leaps or bounds. You do not overlook or neglect details—in fact, you are fussy about them. You are not a "society" person, but you are friendly and sociable.

Your views are rather limited, but your judgment is practical and your character reliable. On the whole, you are a very contented person, and you are not bothered by longings which can never be filled. You take life as it comes and make the best of it. Your movements are not quick or spontaneous, but like your mind, show deliberation. It is useless for any one to try to hurry you at any time.

You are not a great reader, and seldom one of fiction. You enjoy sports, but only as an onlooker.

Big Decrease In Farm Folk In Wisconsin

(Post-Crescent's Washington Bureau)

Washington—Wisconsin is one of the 39 states in which farm population has so decreased during the past decade that, even in spite of a 16.1 per cent increase in total population of the United States during that period, the rural-farm population has decreased generally by 3.8 per cent and now forms only 24.8 per cent of the country's total population as against 29.9 per cent in 1920.

In 1920 there were 520,037 persons living on farms in the Badger state. In 1930 there were only 481,054 according to statistics just made public Monday by the Census bureau.

Wisconsin's total farm population is divided with 373,908 persons living on rural-farms and 8,046 on farms in urban areas. This is a decrease of 42,229 persons on farms in rural areas but an increase of 2,246 persons in the urban farm area.

Decrease Elsewhere

The farm populations of the other four states, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Michigan, in Wisconsin's division, the east-north central section all decreased. In Michigan, the decrease during the decade was from 848,710 persons in 1920 to 752,394 in 1930.

In Minnesota, there were 897,181 persons living on farms in 1920 and only 895,349 in 1930.

Of the 873,009 persons living on rural-farms in Wisconsin in 1930, 779,112 were native whites; 90,481 were foreign-born whites; 377 were negroes; and 3,035 were members of other races.

In addition to its farm population, Wisconsin had a total of 512,155 persons living in its rural areas but not on farms in 1930. This is an increase over its 1920 rural-nonfarm population. Of the 1930 total, 445,664 were native whites; 58,324 were foreign-born whites; 459 were negroes; and 7,678 were members of other races.

The fact that farm population figures for 1930 were swelled by the inclusion of farm laborers and their families who did not actually live on farms is counteracted by the fact that the 1920 census was taken in January when considerable numbers of farm laborers and others usually living on farms were temporarily absent whereas the 1930 census, being taken in April, formed more than the usual number of persons on farms.

We, The Undersigned,

in the interest of fair play and ethical merchandising agree to the provisions herein listed, to wit, as follows:

- 1. We will NOT engage in raffles or lotteries

NOTE: We refer to the promotional plan used in recent years in many Wisconsin cities. A radio is the Grand Prize usually awarded for attendance. Consolation certificates of different values ranging from $10.00 to $60.00 are mailed in various quantities to other attendants. These bonds are not cash but trade coupons.

REASON: Many recipients of trade coupons believe themselves to be one of four or five lucky winners. We know we can not give the public "something for nothing." We're out — We can't do it!
- 2. Obsolete radio models will be represented as such

NOTE: Every season radio models become obsolete — the introduction of new models causes this. We believe that radio buyers will often find exceptional values in such models properly priced. We will designate such models as obsolete and endeavor to price them right — no hoakum — values revealed — not values concealed.
- 3. Dollar for dollar value---our aim

NOTE: Your dealer is a vital factor in your radio purchase. He can give you dollar for dollar value if he so desires. That is our aim — we will sincerely endeavor at all times to abide by our aims. So we three unite and say "Folks, buy here and get what you pay for."

START CAMPAIGN TO ELIMINATE CORN BORER

Sheboygan — (P) — An education campaign among farmers on methods of combating the corn borer, found in Sheboygan-co was planned today by J. C. Kimpport, United States department of agriculture agent.

Kimpport, with men from the state department of agriculture, has made a thorough survey of the county and said it was his opinion Wisconsin had little to fear. The borer was found on only one farm in Sheboygan-co.

He said that if farmers utilized proper precautions, there would be slight danger of the spread of the borer. He recommended early cutting of the crop and plowing under of the ground to eradicate the pest.

E. L. Chambers, state entomologist at Madison, said the appearance of the borer in Sheboygan-co was the first time it had been reported in the state. He said a quarantine would be enforced in the township where it was found and no corn would be permitted to be shipped from it.

SUSPECT TAKES POISON AT MILWAUKEE, DIES

Milwaukee — (P) — A man known to police here as Peter Weirich, 54, arrested on charges of impersonating a federal officer and on accusation on purchasing an automobile in Gallego, N. M., with a worthless check, died in a hospital here today. Doctors said death was due to self-administered poison.

Weirich, who also used several other names, arrived here several days ago with his bride, formerly Miss Betty Haberhauser, 21, Santa Rosa, Calif., for a visit with her brother. She said he had represented himself as a wealthy man. They were married Aug. 10, she said, at Santa Rosa, Colo.

Weirich was arrested yesterday and collapsed at detective headquarters. An empty bottle said by police to have contained poison was found in the detective's assembly room where he was questioned.

SOME TRAVELER

London — While Robert Cousins hasn't been beyond London and Glasgow, he's probably traveled more in 24 years than any man of average income in England. He has charge of the dining car on the London to Glasgow train, and has traveled more than 5,000,000 miles since he went to work on the road.

Ex-husband Is Best Man at Wedding

Her former husband will be the best man at her second wedding. That's the strange situation when June Ramsey (above), Broadway beauty, is married on August 30 to Sabino de Barresches Maraschio, Spanish grandee and sugar magnate. Maraschio was the best man when Miss Ramsey was married to Adolph Erdmann, wealthy New York coal merchant, 18 years ago, and now Erdmann is to be the groomsman at Maraschio's wedding. Furthermore, the ceremony will be held aboard Erdmann's yacht, somewhere off Connecticut.

Child Can Be Influenced By Home Life

BY ANGELO PATRI

It seems at times as though everything one tried to teach a child was lost. In spite of everything one can do he gets into mischief, shocks the neighbors and disgraces the family.

It only seems that way. The home teaching always wins out. No child can live in a home where the background and teaching are good and not reflect it in his own character. No child save a feeble-minded one and we are not discussing that child here and now. All normal children reflect the teachings of home.

You will object and say, "Not mine. Even since he was born I have taught him to tell the truth and respect the rights of other people and to serve God and his fellows. This is the result. He picked up a bicycle the other day, knowing it was not his own, knowing full well whose it was, and rode all morning on it. Then he hid it in the bushes."

"The man who owned the wheel saw him take it. He had him arrested. The whole story is in the papers. In the face of that you tell me that he reflects his home teaching."

Is one mistake to settle a child's life traits? If so, why does not one good deed settle the same question? Why is a child's mistake always so much more important than his good deeds? A boy can steal a bike, ride all day on it, be afraid to return it openly, and still be a good boy. He has still a chance to become a good citizen. If his family background is good, he is sure to be a good citizen. I am not saying he did right. Far from it. I am saying that he made a mistake. Imagine that the man who had him arrested made some in his time. He made one, in my opinion, when he had the boy arrested. He would have done a far better thing had he informed the boy's people about the matter and allowed them to adjust the situation. One never calls in the police for children until every other source of help has been tried and found wanting.

What makes children of good homes do such things? Well, what things? Why speak of a boy's mistake with hatred? If the police had not been called in, if the boy had not been arrested, if the whole matter had been handled, as it should, in my opinion, have been, in private, there would be no such brand upon the boy. If all the men who had, in their youth, taken French leave, helped themselves to what they wanted, when they wanted it, regardless of consequences, had been jailed, there would be a distinct increase in the prison population, and some empty chairs in high places. All children make mistakes, some of them serious. But we do not put them in jail, nor do we give up hope of their future.

Home is the place where a child receives his strongest impressions. They are a long time in coming into full growth and operation. A child's growth is hidden. It goes on inside and no one knows anything about it until it has grown sufficiently to appear above the surface. No home teaching is lost. No child is lost until we give him up. And that is what we are not going to do.

Keep on teaching. When the child makes a mistake tell him so. Then help him straighten it out and go on his way as before, only so much the wiser. And don't trouble the police unless you are obliged to do so.

HEIRESS WEDS HARVARD PUPIL AT WAUKEGAN

Oconomowoc — (P) — Paternal blessings were in store today for Miss Mary Sue McCulloch, 18, heiress to one third of the $1,000,000 estate of John I. Beggs, Milwaukee, and St. Louis utility magnate, and Whipple Van Ness Jones, 21, who eloped to Waukegan, Ill., and were married.

The couple slipped away from their summer homes yesterday, through the ceremony with courthouse clerks as witnesses, and continued on a honeymoon journey to Chicago. Their parents were notified by telegrams last night of the "event."

Jones is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Jones and a Harvard university student. His father is manager of the estate of William Woods Plankinton, pioneer packer and capitalist.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard McCulloch, St. Louis, who spend summer vacations at the Beggs estate on Lac La Belle here. She is the granddaughter of the late Mr. Beggs.

150 YOUNG MARKSMEN IN NATIONAL MEETS

Camp Perry, O. — (P) — One hundred fifty five young marksmen went to the firing line today in the opening of the junior rifle corps national small bore matches. The group includes boys and girls from 12 to 18 years of age.

Pistol matches are to be fired Thursday for police officers attending the small arms school, which will be concluded Saturday.

Twenty-five or more cities are represented by police officers this year. The Junior Rifle Association matches, in which 35 girls are participating this year, will continue until Friday.

OUTLINES FIVE-YEAR PLAN FOR PROSPERITY

Amsterdam, Holland — (P) — A five-year world prosperity plan was outlined to delegates from 20 countries attending the world social-economic congress today by Dr. Louis L. Lorwin, of the Brookings institution, Washington, D. C.

He told 300 economists, industrialists, labor leaders and government officers that a general five year moratorium on all war debts and reparations payments was the first necessary step to give the world a breathing spell from what he termed its most aggravating and dangerous post-war problem.

Such a moratorium would leave open final settlement of the debts and reparations question, he said, but the presumption would be in favor of further extending it and a final cancellation if the effects proved as beneficial as expected.

LARGE NOSES BALANCED BY LOW HAIRDRESS

BY ALICIA HART

A nose does considerably more than serve as a breathing organ. It sticks itself into everybody's beauty problem in some way or other, it seems. Some noses are too large, people say. Others are too audaciously tilted. Others grow red when it is cold. And a vast, vast army of noses have a scattering of blackheads.

If your nose is too large your problem is small. Pull your hair back from your face, form an interesting setting for your nose, and play up to it. If you coil your hair low on your neck, you will find that your features are balanced.

If your nose is tilted don't try to be dignified in your hair dress. Be rather gay and strike an impudent touch in your general costume. Not a gaudy or flamboyant one. Just a rather carefree, merry attitude, that goes with a turned-up nose.

If your nose gets red, look to your physical condition. Maybe your circulation is sluggish. As winter comes perhaps the colder air and the biting winds will whip color into your nose, where it shouldn't be, instead of into your cheeks, where it should be. Maybe your digestive apparatus isn't functioning properly.

If your nose shines don't think that you can cover the gloss with powder and forget it. The chances are that your skin is over-oiled. If you have blackheads, your skin quite probably has an excess of oil, also. Wash your nose carefully with hot water and soap. Make sure that the soap penetrates and removes the dirt that causes the blackheads.

An astringent should be used next.

Don't put too much powder on your nose. Just enough to take away the shine that still remains and leave the skin with the softness that powder gives. Watch the cracks. You don't want a white edge of powder to show.

Never blow your nose violently. Do not pull your nose, either. Your nostrils are quite all right in their natural size and you should not increase them.

Colds aren't good for noses, either.

Remember that a large nose is said by many experts to denote more individuality than a small one. It may even have more beauty. Whatever kind you happen to have, the chances are that it is the very one you need for your particular type and if you play up to it, you will let it stick itself into the center of your beauty picture. Mr. and Mrs. Mead will make their temporary home in Honolulu.

FIRE CAUSES LOSS OF $10,000 IN VILLAGE

Phillips — (P) — The origin of a fire which destroyed seven buildings in the village of Ogema, about 20 miles south of here, causing damage estimated by owners at between $10,000 and $15,000, was under investigation of Price-co authorities today.

A strong wind and the dryness of the buildings handicapped firemen. The Phillips and Rib Lake departments aided the Ogema firemen and volunteers. The flames were controlled at 5 p. m. yesterday after threatening to spread into the business center, a block distant.

The heaviest loss was suffered by H. G. Kiger, whose garage and a storage shed were razed before automobile and equipment could be saved. Other buildings destroyed included a blacksmith shop, warehouses and barns. One warehouse contains equipment of the state highway department.

MAY SETTLE MARITAL TROUBLE OUT OF COURT

Chicago — (P) — Indications that an agreement out of court might be reached in the marital difficulties of Capt. Christian Gross, attached to the American Legation at Ottawa, and Mrs. Virginia Harrison Gross, his wife, were given yesterday by Thomas Hart Fisher, her attorney after a conference with Attorney Robert Cantwell, Jr., for Capt. Gross.

Gross wired his counsel last week that he was coming here to ask proof of the paternity of a 3-year-old child, Anna, born to his wife in France after their separation. He also wanted the divorce decree, granted him last August, modified so that, if he is the father of Anna, she will benefit from an $8,000 trust fund created for their other two children.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE
© 1929 by NEA Service, Inc.

"THE name of the man who is throwing this party is Thomas Andrews," Dr. Barnes explained to Sue. "He's approaching the grand old state of middle age. And he does not have a wife. However, he has had two in his day. The first one died and the second one didn't understand him, so he said."

"She really understood him too well," Sue interposed. "It's bad business. Women must let their husbands think that they are a great mystery—even when they know exactly the spot where their socks are mended." An English smile played around the blue eyes and red lips. "I'm sorry I interrupted. Go on."

"Where did you learn so much?" Dr. Barnes asked. "Well, anyway, Thomas is a good old egg. But he has a younger brother whom I knew well. He was one of my best friends at college. A good sport. And the younger brother has a very beautiful wife named Lois, who used to cause me some sleepless nights."

"But Alan—that's her husband—won her. Even her brother-in-law has a liking for her. She's slim, fair, graceful and her eyes are green or gray or something. They change. Her hair is reddish like bronze. She has a husky voice, not a metallic soprano. And how I hate the trickle of soprano tones! Your voice is low and deep, too. That's why I picked you for an assistant."

"Well, anyway, in spite of all her tricks, I'm not sure that Lois was worth the winning. I'm just as glad that I didn't succeed. No love lost or anything of that sort. But she has an idea that I'll always remain free because of her. And with that idea in her head, I think I should act as an escort here, there and yonder while her husband is away. She'll stay on at this place most of the summer but he and his brother will come only for week ends except for a week now and then. I don't want her trailing me."

"So I'm the interference," Sue could visualize the situation very easily. She knew exactly how the other girl would respond. She would probably see through the ruse and be merely amused. It would tell her so clearly what she wanted to know. Namely, that Dr. Barnes was afraid of her.

"She won't catch on if I can help it," Sue said, not knowing that she spoke out loud until the words were uttered.

"That's sporting of you." He didn't talk again until the lights of the house suddenly gleamed a bend in the road. Instead he hummed snatches of songs.

"Will there be many guests?" Sue asked, as the car swung into the drive.

"Plenty, I imagine. There's a house party in full swing. Don't worry about them."

"I'm not," Sue reflected that it was strange, but she wasn't worrying. It didn't matter to her what sort of an impression she made on them. No one really mattered but Jack, anyway. She did not have to consider whether she was going over, as the saying went, with others. She could be herself. They clicked. Understood each other. Trouble, sorrow, gaiety, anything could come. They could meet it.

The superfluity of worrying whether she was a social success or not at a party of strange people was no longer at all important. The car was pulling up at the house.

WE WOMEN

BUSINESS HONEYMOON BAD COMBINATION—ATTRACTIVE WIFE SHOULD SHARE SPOT-LIGHT WITH POPULAR HUSBAND

Dear Miss Vane: I have been for some time on a combined honeymoon and business trip. My husband, it seems to me, cares more for business than for anything else. He takes me around with him, to the different towns, dumps me down and expects me to be happy in a strange city where I have no friends and am away from home for the first time in my life. Why should he be so devoted to business and treat me already as if I were his wife of five years' standing. We argue about this all the time and never come to any decision. Please answer through your paper.

RUTH G.

The combination of business trip and honeymoon hardly sounds a good idea anyhow. If either of you had been more expert in matrimonial matters, you might have guessed that little mixture would prove a bad move. But it's too late to start all over again. You must face the problem as it now stands.

In the first place your husband, believe it or not, is probably feeling a much greater sense of responsibility about his job, than he did before he was married. A good deal more now depends on his holding down his position. He knows this, and so this trip is freighted with great significance to him. The chances are he's never been quite so conscientious before.

And it doesn't help you to have you around reminding him that he's making you miserable, and that you are only etc., etc. So stop whining. You have everything to look forward to. You'll probably have a much happier time once you're back at home again. Give yourself a chance to get adjusted to your new life and don't make it a fiasco from the start by nagging and fussing.

There are an awful lot of girls you know who marry men who think that life ought to be one continuous honeymoon spree, with no business trip at all to interfere, and it's these girls who have to go out later on to earn enough to support husband and whatever family there may be. There are a great many things worse than a conscientious husband and although I'll admit it's pretty tiresome to be a lonesome honeymooner, still if you have good sense and good nature, you'll be reasonable and look toward the sense and good nature, you'll be future for greater happiness.

And if you have any friends who proposes to combine the happy wedding trip with the earnest business campaign, tell them to forget the idea forever. It won't work well.

Don't Begrudge Husband His Popularity

M. E. It will do you good for a little while to be in a group where you're not the central figure. Although you have remained unspoiled and not too vain, at the same time you've been counting constantly on admiration from men other than your husband, and this has caused you to regard him with rather a casual attitude.

Now the tables are turned a bit. He has more attention than he's had before, because he's a nice fellow and a good sportman. Well, don't begrudge him his fun. He was loyal and patient and sweet with you even when you were perhaps not quite so considerate of him as you might have been. Be generous with him now. Let him be popular. Don't sulk because you're no longer the fascinating Mrs. E., but that "sweet little Mrs. E." you know the wife of Mr. E."

After all, if you love your husband, his happiness counts as much as yours, and obviously he is perfectly willing to share his popularity now with you. His head isn't being turned, nor has he shown any difference to you in his manner. Therefore, buck up and reflect that you needed a little quietening now. It won't do you any harm to sit around and appreciate your husband. That will make you both happier than anything else could.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

by Ely Culbertson
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

A JUMP RESPONSE TO PARTNER'S TAKEOUT DOUBLE

IN the event of a Takeout Double by partner, under the Approach Forcing System, the Responding Hand infers one of three things. First, that the Doubler has a minimum of 3 honor-tricks in three suits or, second, 3 honor-tricks in two suits with one good biddable suit or, third, 2-1/2 honor-tricks in two suits, holding a fairly solid "escape suit." The Responding

Hand also knows that with no biddable suit and poor support for a major suit bid, even with 3 honor-tricks his partner would not double.

Knowing these things makes his problem easy. He has several options, one of which is to pass. If there is an intervening bid he is, by that fact, relieved of the responsibility of responding.

First, his response may be a simple Takeout of the Double. This is made, holding anything up to 1-1/2 honor-tricks. Choice of suit will be dealt with later.

Second, holding about 2 honor-tricks, his response should be a Jump Takeout. This shows top card strength and not suit strength, as the hand given as today's text illustrates. Incidentally, the hand shows the one instance in Contract where it is permissible to make a Jump bid on a non-biddable trump suit. A Jump bid is a bid higher than necessary to respond.

Third, holding more than 2 honor-tricks and a good trump suit with about 4 trump tricks, the bid should be a Double Jump Takeout.

The selection of the proper declaration is a needlessly difficult one to many Bridge players. With two four-card suits, one a major and the other a minor, the former should be bid even though the latter is the stronger. With a four-card major and a longer minor, the major suit is given preference to the extent of bidding it when headed by the Knave.

A higher card instead of a biddable five-card minor. However, a six-card diamond or club suit should be preferred to a four-card major of average strength. With a choice between two four-card majors, the spade should be bid. The puzzler for the average player is this—a hand having no stopper in opponents' bid, though four cards in the suit, and no other four-card suit. In this case the lowest three-card minor should be bid. Of course, if there is a stopper in opponents' trump, at least 1 honor-trick in the hand, notrump is the answer. Even though holding a stopper, with a biddable four-card major, it is usually better to bid the suit. Should the suit be a minor, 1 honor-trick in the hand, the notrump is preferable.

Mother-- let us help you make this important choice wisely . . .

School opens soon. Little feet will need shoes. Upon your choice rests the comfort and future development of your child's feet.

Really, mother, you are responsible for more than mere shoes. Yours is the choice to either make or break your child's foot structure right now. Children's feet are plastic. They can be molded right or wrong. That's why it is so vital to provide them with shoes that are absolutely correct in design and fitting. Whatever you overlook now will be paid for dearly by the child in later years.

At Dame's, children's fitting is scientifically correct

Our staff are all graduates of special training schools. They know feet. They are sincerely interested in fitting your child perfectly. They use the Pedograph, the X-Ray and other scientific equipment which Dame's provides. And they have the finest stock of children's shoes from which to select just the size and type of shoe that fits your child's feet.

There is so much that we can tell you about children's feet! Bring your child along and let's have a chat tomorrow.

Neenah—Playing a superior game of softball, the Wisconsin Telephone Co. team Monday evening won the city championship and Durham cup for the first by turning back the strong Neenah Paper Co. aggregation by a score of 5 to 2 on the Columbian park diamond. Approximately 1,000 persons witnessed the tilt.

The American league title holders bunched their hits in the third frame to score a four-run lead. They held their opponents, the National league title winners, scoreless until the sixth inning, when the paper-makers scored their only two runs. The final run for the phenomenon came in the fifth inning.

"Wally" Klein, Phone Co. pitcher hurled airtight softball, holding the paper-makers to a few scattered hits. He was ably supported behind the pan by Holzer, "Silent" Madsen, and "Bully" Schultz stood behind Klein and Madsen.

The three game 'championship series started last Wednesday night at Columbian park with the Phone Co. crew winning a hardfought battle by a close score of 1 to 0. That fracas was a pitcher's duel between Klein and Madsen.

In the second engagement of the series played Thursday night, the Neenah Paper Co. crowd evened matters by a 7 to 6 win.

The Neenah Paper Co. team won the city championship in 1927 and 1928, and in 1929 relinquished their title to the Bergstrom Paper Co. team. Last year the championship was won by the Jersild Knitting Co. aggregation.

Radio Finds Lighter Music Is Cure For Business Blues

New York—Present business conditions have caused radio fans to cry loudly for music of the lighter types, radio orchestra leaders have found. This is because the lighter types of music tend to lift their ebbing spirits and act as an antidote for the gloomy picture that business has been painted lately, it is said.

Not only do jazz band leaders agree on this point, but such great operatic directors as Gatti-Casazza and Arturo Bodansky, noted leaders of the New York Metropolitan Opera Company, believe this is true. So strong is their belief that they recently incorporated the light opera "Boccaccio" in their current list.

"The mood of the moment is timely for our excursion into light opera repertoire for the trend today, in all forms of music, is toward buoyancy," Gatti-Casazza explains.

"That, undoubtedly, is why so-called popular music has such a universal appeal. There is no better success from momentary care than in buoyant, soul-lifting music whether it is found in the opera house, in musical comedy or on the air."

Merle Johnson, famous saxophone player heard over both national radio chains, reiterates the famous impresario's opinion in saying: "Those who have their fingers on the pulse of the radio audience, who cold-bloodedly analyze these requests, find that those pieces which have a plaintive note running through them are in demand. This would take a psychologist to explain maybe, but the fact remains that people, trying to forget their troubles are, figuratively, trying to drown them in jazz."

'RED GENERAL' GUARD GERMAN REPUBLIC AS MINISTER OF DEFENSE

Wilhelm Groener, Hindenburg Ally, Held Position Since 1928

BY LOUIS P. LOCHNER

Berlin—(AP)—The young German republic made no mistake when, through President Paul von Hindenburg, it summoned Wilhelm Groener, the "red general," in 1928 to the post of minister of defense.

Groener was not only a trusted comrade-in-arms of Hindenburg, whose quartermaster-general he was after the dismissal of General Erich Ludendorff in October, 1919; he also proved himself a reliable republican in whose hands the new army was safe from monarchist influences.

Unlike Ludendorff, who spoke in even more offensive language of his former field marshal, Groener has throughout been a devoted follower of Germany's grand old man. On assuming the office of minister of defense he declared:

"Hindenburg's faith in me is the foundation upon which I rest."

This fidelity paid dividends, for Groener has been able to get from a reluctant reichstag larger appropriations for the army and navy, relatively, than any other government department could secure. The fact that Hindenburg stood behind the "red general's" budget stifled criticism.

Groener served in the great war in three exacting positions—first as chief of the entire army of transportation system, then as head of the newly created "Kriegsmarine," whose duty it was to carry out the economic and material organization of Hindenburg's program of curtailing the activities of the whole civilian population with those of the military, and finally as quartermaster-general.

It was in the last position that he acquired the sobriquet of "red general." Unlike most of the military men surrounding Emperor William II, he saw that the days of the monarchy were numbered and dared say so in the council at Spa on November 9, 1918, which led to the Kaiser's flight to Holland.

For this action his fellow officers dubbed him a "red." So relentless were they afterward in their social boycott that Groener insisted upon the appointment of an "honor court" of generals, who, after studying the Spa events, exonerated him from having committed any dishonorable act toward the sovereign to whom he had sworn allegiance.

After the emperor's departure Groener assisted Hindenburg, in leading the exhausted Garner army back home. He then retired from service.

In 1929, however, when Kapp tried to unseat the republican government, Groener rallied to Ebert's support and was a leading figure in putting down the rebellion. As minister of transportation he rendered conspicuous service from 1929 to 1930.

Groener is a good mixer who has always managed, though working hard, to attend social functions and himself be a charming host. The duties of hostess were taken over by his only daughter after the death of his first wife and until his remarriage in 1930. The affection between father and daughter was proverbial in Berlin.

Groener was born November 22, 1857, in Ludwigsburg, Westphalia, the son of a Saxon army paymaster. He entered the army in 1884 and rose rapidly despite the opposition of many fellow officers who were of noble blood and missed the "von" in his name.

RESIDENTS THINK CAPITAL HOTTEST PLACE IN AMERICA

Government Employees Particularly Hard Hit by Hot Weather

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—There is something about the heat—or the people—here which causes every true Washingtonian to insist that no matter how hot the weather may be elsewhere it is still hotter in Washington.

Temperatures at other points go higher but any thermometer that registers actual discomfort would more than hold its own in the capital. And perhaps the most miserable fact of all—year, this is just a story about a beautiful dash out of town for that when you dash out of town for a relieving swim in almost any of the nearby waters you find yourself getting bitten by wild animals, of which more anon.

No Good Windsweep

One obvious trouble is that the town is too remote from the Arctic circle. But more to the point is the fact that it is laid out close to sea level, with a lot of old swamp land utilized. The fathers who picked the site didn't realize that "it's not the heat but the humidity." Those who came after them at the seat of government have been learning it ever since. Old inhabitants who have survived many summers explain also that we get no good windsweep here and that it stays nearly as hot at night as in the daytime.

Washington goes away for the summer more than any other place. Society makes the first break. Then Congress goes, except for a very few gentle like the Utah senators, Smoot and King, who stay through the heat and work and work and work. For those whose jobs keep them—Congress's most of us—it is considered the only thing to do, if it can possibly be afforded, to pack the wife and kids off at least for a couple of months. The city is full of lonesome men who walk aimlessly at night or see a lot of movies. Most of the cabinet members have managed to keep out of town during the recent spell, but President Hoover and many other of the higher officials remain. The president, however, could remain ignorant of the heat except for what he reads in the newspapers if he didn't have to step outside and drive down to the pool water at the capitan each weekend. The White House executive offices are so effectively refrigerated as to guarantee cool, calm and collected presidents at all times.

Real Sufferers

The folks who really get it in the neck during this weather are about 15,000 government employees who work in the temporary stucco buildings erected during the war. Elsewhere one can sometimes spy upon strength to force a laugh at the heat, but not in those low, flimsy structures.

Washington's general reassessment at its summer heat has been finding further expression in demands that cooling systems be installed in the various splendid new edifices going up under the big federal building program. It is argued that it cost Uncle Sam $150,000 last summer to dismiss employees on days when the heat was especially atrocious. Much is lost in efficiency through the season. Already, as a result of such suggestions the architects are planning a certain amount of artificial cooling which was not originally contemplated. Also, four of the big new Commerce Department building will be cooled, it is understood.

Water Pests

Artificial cooling, however, will have no effect on the sea nettles or jellyfish which infest Chesapeake Bay, the lower Potomac, the Severn, Patuxent, South, St. Mary's and other rivers where Washingtonians on weekends try to escape the heat in bathing suits. The weekend trek out of Washington to beaches within a hundred-mile radius reaches huge proportions, but the stinging jellyfish are thick at many all points and they keep keeping people out of the water. In appearance these things are like the writhes of umbrellas expressed in so much ectoplasm and their tails when encountered make human flesh smart painfully for a couple of hours or more.

It seems that the hotter the weather gets the thicker the jellyfish get.

Washington unquestionably would be able to withstand the heat with more equanimity if it didn't have to keep thinking of those jellyfish floating around just off the beaches.

MAN DENIES KILLING WOMAN AFTER PARTY

Chicago—(AP)—George Denister, alias Denison, denied to police today that he beat Mrs. Anna Rainford, 32, a divorcee, to death after a Sunday night party.

He admitted they said that he slapped her a "few times" during the quarrel over her attentions to other men, but, otherwise he would say nothing.

Mrs. Rainford's body, the skull crushed apparently by a blunt instrument, was found lying on a bed by Dr. Oscar O'Brien, who he responded to a call that the woman was ill. In the apartment, he told police, was a man whom he identified as Denister.

PENALTY OF SUCCESS

Liverpool—With success comes a high blood pressure, and often death is the result. Such is the opinion of Dr. John Hay, professor of medicine at Liverpool University. "The successful man does not walk, he rides," Mr. Hay explains. "His friends take advantage of his efficiency and flatter him, impose upon his good nature, and accordingly he is a member of this and that committee, resulting in a continuous burst and mental strain. All of which brings on high blood pressure."

PLAN NATIONAL DRIVE TO RAISE AID WORK FUNDS

Gifford Starts Organization of Nation-wide Group

Washington—(P)—Plans for a national drive to aid local communities in raising unemployment relief funds were being forwarded today by Walter S. Gifford.

Representatives of nation-wide welfare and charity organizations were called in today by the national relief director to work out the plan and attempt to fix a time for it.

The amount to be raised has not been determined. Gifford hopes, however, to get the campaign under way as soon as possible in order that the money may be on hand when winter arrives.

Among those invited to the conference were: Allen T. Burns, director of the Community Chest association; Linton B. Swift, of the Family Welfare Officials; Miss Bertha McCall, National Travelers Aid association; Miss Joanna Colcord, Red Cross; Miss Mary E. Russell, Sage foundation; and the Rev. John O'Grady, of the National Catholic Welfare conference.

Concerted Drive
Gifford said he hoped to arrange for these organizations to conduct their appeals for funds simultaneously.

"Such a period can then be recommended to all organizations over the country interested in raising money for relief," he added, "in order that there may be a nation-wide appeal. It is not an appeal for a national fund, but for maximum local funds."

The relief director said no plans have been made for a national fund. Questioned about what would be done if localities failed to raise the necessary money, he said that problem would be considered when it arose.

His organization, Gifford said, was interested in finding jobs for unemployed. Realizing, however, he said, all of them could not be cared for in this way, the group would be devoted to making sure that local communities raise relief funds.

Relieve Suffering
The ultimate aim of the organization he added, was to see that "every city and every state is free from acute suffering."

While he formulated his plans, Gifford was also perfecting his organization. Additions are to be named soon by President Hoover to the advisory committee appointed last week to assist him. Every state is to be represented in that group, while Gifford also plans to draft volunteers to help him.

Gifford succeeded in getting the work under way within less than a week after the huge task was assigned him by President Hoover. He established headquarters in the Commerce Department building and prepared to stay as long as necessary.

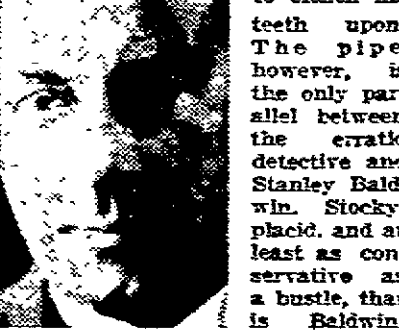

In addition, he will keep in close touch with headquarters in New York of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, of which he is president, by a special telephone wire. His assistant, W. J. O'Connor, and his secretary, Miss E. K. Taylor, are here with him.

BALDWIN
As a member of a new coalition cabinet he may be counted upon to reverse the direction of many of the policies MacDonald initiated, even though the harassed laborer remains the government titular head.

Also, he may be counted upon to be slow about it. He has been slow all his life. He was in his father's iron business 20 years before he took his maiden dive into politics. Typically he went in then only to fill the house of commons seat vacated by his father's death. Thereafter, for 10 years he balanced calm hands upon a little aboriginal pad which slowly grew into a moderate paunch, and sized the situation up.

Not until 1918 did he move from his back seat, and then only to become secretary to a cabinet member. It took him ten years more to achieve the prime ministry. And when he lost it to MacDonald and the labor government, he was characteristic in his unhurried wait for the hour which is striking today. Derby hat on a hard, round head, umbrella constantly ready, a faintly humorous quirk to his broad mouth, he made his brilliant speeches, fought off enemies who disliked his party leadership, and slowly moved back toward the eminence he likes despite a profound affection for rural scenes and pigs and good books.

Consider the obscure role of a younger son of royalty. Prince Henry, Duke of Gloucester, third son of the regent George, has appendicitis and Americans may learn the details only provided they are patient enough to dig far back into their favorite paper.

A handsome lad of 30, tallest of all the king's sons, Henry is deemed of little general consequence because several heirs are between him and the throne which the Prince of Wales is now slated to fill. The jobs he gets are of a like inconsequence. His best assignment to date has been that of representative of his father to the national advisory committee assisting Walter S. Gifford in unemployment relief, including Owen D. Young, of New York.

The others were: Conrad Mann, Kansas City; P. G. Spillsbury, Phoenix, Arizona; S. P. Bush, Columbus, and James E. Bell, Minneapolis.

Gifford, national relief director, announced yesterday the committee would be augmented to include representatives of every state.

PRICE OF CRUDE OIL IS SLOWLY MOVING UPWARD

Increases Are Reflected in Advancing Prices of Gasoline

Oklahoma City—(P)—Quotations for crude oil crept upward today, the price of gasoline in at least two cities of the mid-continent area reflected the changing conditions and started upward also.

With cheaply bought crude oil in overground storage getting low, both major and minor oil operators continued to meet the demand price of $1 a barrel set by Governor W. H. Murrie as the minimum figure contingent upon his reopening Oklahoma wells.

Others added their voices yesterday to the dozen or more operators clamoring for oil at $1 per barrel or close to that figure. East Texas had a flat price of 68 cents.

In Oklahoma City five distributors of gasoline announced one-cent increases in the retail price, fixing white United States motor grade at 15-cents a gallon, and Shell Petroleum and Standard of Indiana announced an end to their "price war" in St. Louis, to mean a return to higher prices in effect last April, and a cost to the consumer of 12.9 cents for Standard white gas.

In both cities the mid-continent shut down, effective under martial law in Oklahoma and east Texas under a decree of the public service commission in two Kansas pools, was given as the basic reason for the increases.

Prices Are Boosted
Oklahoma City purchasers of gasoline have had the retail price boosted four cents, one cent at a time, since the cost of crude oil at the wells ranged upward from 10-cents a barrel to 22-cents less than a month ago.

In Texas, on the dawn of the date set by the railroad commission for a hearing to determine the extent to which the new Texas conservation law shall be invoked in that state, incendiary activities attributed to opponents of the military shutdown had resulted in the burning or attempted burning of eight structures. The last one, last night, was only about a mile from general headquarters of the national guard units at Kilgore, Texas.

An unidentified man drove wildly through brigade headquarters yesterday firing at the tents of the guardsmen. Troops there were armed with sawed-off shotguns immediately afterward.

Figures from Kilgore indicated that of the huge supply of overground storage in that area at the start of the shutdown, only about 2,600,000 barrels is left. The amount was estimated at 3,500,000 barrels late last week.

Assaults Governor
Austin, Texas—(P)—Col. Alvin Owsley of Dallas, Texas, former national commander of the American Legion, assailed Governor R. S. Sterling's action putting the east Texas oil fields under martial law, in address at the coronation of Abyssinia's king.

SEE MORE INTEREST IN HORSE RAISING

Ma'ison—(P)—The 1931 stallion registration is an indication of a revival of interest in raising horses, according to O. J. Thompson, secretary of the department of agriculture and markets.

There were 772 stallions registered this year as compared with 728 in 1930. A total of 129 new horses were registered in the state this year for the first time.

Scrub and grade stallions decreased from 89 in 1930 to 77 in 1931. In 1930 there were 418 grades and scrubs as compared with 1,310 pure breeds and in 1931 a total of 1859 scrubs and grades were being used as compared with 1,266 pure breeds. Mr. Thompson said.

1931 is the first year since 1915 to show a gain in stallion registration. Mr. Thompson said. Percheron and Belgian registration led the list with 424 and 232, respectively. Clydesdale had 14, Standard Bred 7 and French Draft had 4. There were two Morgans, one American saddle and nine Jacks on the roll.

dressing a public meeting here last night.

He declared "the war has just begun unless the governor has the good judgment to revoke his martial law order and bring home those soldiers of tyranny, leaving oil men to follow their pursuits in peace."

ALL CREAM

To the Last Drop

A bottle of cream is the "richness" of the milk. The part that is so far better, nicer and richer than the rest of the milk that it raises to the top of the container to shout in demonstration of its superior quality.

Cream, like Sterling silver, is a measuring gauge of quality, by which comparisons are often made to illustrate a given point of a better product.

The circulation of this newspaper is comparable as being all cream.

All cream, because each and every subscriber of this newspaper is a paid subscriber. They take this newspaper, pay for it, because they want to read the news and the advertising. This one point alone easily separates this newspaper's subscribers from all other methods of reaching the buyer through advertising. The same as the cream and skimmed milk are separated. It designates our subscribers as being all cream for all kinds of advertising.

No other kind of advertising is delivered to the prospective purchaser of merchandise and paid for by that prospective buyer as is the circulation of our paper. Here, then, it is a certainty that this newspaper's circulation steps out of the ordinary into a class of super quality.

Again, this paper's circulation is all cream circulation because of its thorough coverage. Nearly every home, yes, we feel we could truthfully say every home in the city is a paid subscriber to the this paper, while on the outside of our city on the many rural routes, and in the surrounding cities and communities, this paper is a welcome guest that is paid to call.

In the trade territory covered by this paper there are a good many thousand homes and nearly all of these homes in this trade territory are paid subscribers to this newspaper — Your newspaper extends your trade territory and brings dollars and dollars to our city.

This complete coverage gives the advertiser quick access to these homes at a very low cost. The advertiser can plan a message today and through the this newspaper have it delivered to the farthest subscriber within 24 hours, as fast in many instances faster than a special delivery letter.

Tell every day in this paper and sell every day. Continuous telling means continuous selling.

KDKA MANAGERS PLAN TO EXPAND RADIO SERVICE

Programs With Personal
Messages to Be Given
Semi-weekly

BY ROBERT MACK
Copyright 1931, by The Cons. Press
Washington—(C.P.A.)—Eight years of broadcasting special programs carrying personal messages to those who dwell in the far reaches of the Arctic circle, where the call letters KDKA are known to the call letters KDKA, are the managers of those broadcasts to decide to expand the service to make it semi-weekly instead of weekly.

In addition to the regular Saturday night broadcasts to the far north from station KDKA, Pittsburgh, the two New England stations of the Westinghouse company will send out similar programs every Wednesday night, beginning Oct. 1. Anyone in the United States and Canada having relatives or friends in the Arctic may have his message read into the microphone.

Not only will station WBEA, Boston, and WEEZ, Springfield, broadcast to the far north on their normal synchronized channel of 890 kilocycles (302.8 meters) but their short wave auxiliary, WEXX, like KDKA's short wave auxiliary, WEXX, will carry the programs simultaneously in order to insure reception during nights when atmospheric conditions may be bad.

Missionary Programs
In addition to doubling their far north schedules, Westinghouse officials also are planning to initiate a new series of similar programs for KDKA, destined for reception by United Presbyterian missionaries in India, Ethiopia and other countries. These will be part of the Arctic broadcasts, beginning the first Saturday in October.

The story of KDKA's broadcasts to the desolate wastes of the north, where thousands of Americans and Canadians live their lonely existence, is one of radio's real sagas. Letters and messages are read to individual missionaries, trappers, fur post employees, mounted police and explorers. Except for the mails, which are few and far between, this furnishes their only direct contact with loved ones and friends dwelling in more comfortable outside world.

Even the Eskimos have come to look forward to the programs with eagerness, for at these times they are able to hear their friends who have returned to civilization have addressed them directly in their own tongue. Hundreds of thousands of American and Canadian listeners, tuning their radios to KDKA at 11:15 p. m. on Saturday nights and to WBEZ-WEEZ at the same time on Wednesday nights, can also hear the programs.

Since radio waves travel southward as well as northward, the programs at various times have also included messages to the Byrd expedition, the Antarctic, the Dickey expedition up the Orinoco, the Mott Grasso expedition in Brazil, the Bartlett expedition to Greenland and the Sutton expedition to the far north. The father of the idea of these broadcasts is George A. Wendt, of the Canadian Westinghouse, Ltd., who is regarded as one of the patron saints of those whose habits are in the far away corners of the world.

Hollywood Confused Over Similarity Of Many Names

BY JESSIE HENDERSON
Copyright 1931, by The Cons. Press
Hollywood—(C.P.A.)—Life grows more and more confusing in the cinema capital on account of names. Oh, not the names people call one another—there is seldom any confusion about these; and, by the way, "Slag" is the latest. "Slag," popularized by Sylvia the masseuse, is the equivalent of "slug" in Norwegian. "Slag" the present confusion is caused by the fact that more and more prominent people in the film colony have identical monikers.

There are two Beers, ten Benetts, three Griffiths, two De Milles, and three Gleasons, just as a start. But the trouble isn't so much with last names. It's with the names that are alike all the way through. For example, there are four contract players at one studio whose names are exactly the same as those of four people at other studios. No one knows which you mean when you say "William Boyd." The Bill

Boyd who has played in pictures for years, or the ex-actor Bill Boyd who was "Sergeant Quirt" in the stage version of "What Price Glory?"

Charles Or "Buddy"?

Equally, what do you mean, Charles Rogers? The production head of Pathe, or the actor whose nickname is "Buddy"?

When you speak of Lee, do you refer to Robert Lee, Dorothy Lee, or Rowland V. Lee, the director? And if you speak of Bob Lee, the director at Paramount, or Robert Lee, the writer, brother of Rowland V. and scenarist of that George Bancroft picture, "The Mighty"?

If it's George Arthur about whom you prattle, do you mean George Arthur, the comedian, or George Arthur, head of the Paramount film editors? When you mention Douglas Fairbanks, is it Doug or Junior?

And when you get on the subject of the farmers who have suffered greatly on account of the present drought, we feel that we shall not ask for any additional equipment at this time and shall attempt to get along with what equipment we have providing we have no more such as the bridge at Kaukauna.

However, should we encounter a very severe winter with much snow, we shall need additional snow removal equipment.

Respectfully submitted,

10,000 PERSONS TO TAKE PART IN BADGER STATE FAIR

Event Will Open at Milwaukee on Aug. 29 and Continue Through Sept. 4

MADISON—(A.P.)—Some 10,000 Wisconsin residents will participate in the presentation of the 1931 state fair which will run from Aug. 29 to Sept. 4, Ralph E. Ammon, fair manager said today.

The chorus concert at the grandstand on Sunday is alone expected to have 900 persons. One of the features is the singing of the Hallelujah chorus from Handel's Messiah.

The concert is sponsored by the Mary Pickford, it is that sister-in-law Mary Pickford, or is it Mary Pickford?

You need a Ouija board and a set of finger prints to be intelligent about a movie colony conversation, these days.

WISCONSIN FEDERATION OF MUSIC clubs. Persons from all parts of the state will be among the 900 voices at the event, Mr. Ammon said. The Milwaukee Philharmonic orchestra will play the accompaniment.

Some 600 persons will be in the 4-H club concert at the Coliseum while about 120 will compete in the horse show tournament. About 750 will enter boys' and girls' club contests while the dramatic dramatizations will have 120. Some 600 people will engage in the industrial exposition while exhibitors for premiums number about 3,000. In addition 420 will be in bands and orchestras and 450 in the folk fests.

"These figures indicate that the people of Wisconsin are readily accepting the new idea that the fair should be a people's fair, open to all to participate as well as to observe," Mr. Ammon said. "Ten nationalities will present folk songs and dances of their native countries in the folk festival."

Wisconsin's part in the development of the Pullman sleepers is brought to mind with the announcement by the Pullman company that it will have a pretentious exhibit of its products at the fair. The first Pullman sleeper was built in Fond du Lac in 1859.

In the year following the Civil war many elaborate and ornate sleepers were constructed in Wisconsin. Many of the Pullmans have been named for Wisconsin towns, some of them Madison, Milwaukee, Oshkosh, Appleton, Marshfield, Fond du Lac and Prairie du Chien.

FEWER BIRTHS IN STATE IN 6 MONTHS

MADISON—(A.P.)—During the first six months of 1931 live births in Wisconsin totaled 25,612, representing a decrease of 1,176 as compared with the corresponding period in 1930, the state bureau of vital statistics reported today.

The 1929 total of 25,612 marked the lowest in the decade. In 1928 the state recorded 27,918 births but the record came in 1921 when the total was 32,168 live births.

If the current slump in births continues during the last half of 1931, the year's total will be about 54,000, the lowest since 1911 when the population of Wisconsin was about 500,000 less than that of today, the bureau said.

Doctors And Lawyers Schedule Golf Match For Thursday

12 MAN TEAMS ARE NAMED FOR BIG TOURNNEY

Date on Which Losers Will Fete Winners Has Not Been Decided

THE battle of the century or of the entire history of mankind will be fought Thursday afternoon at the Butte des Morts golf course when that advertised and loudly ballyhooed contest between Appleton doctors and lawyers finally is staged.

A dinner to the winning team with the losing aggregation paying the bill is the prize for which the boys will be battling. And while the doctors admit the lawyers probably will do a lot of talking and even waving, none ever convinced a doctor that he didn't know as much or more about the particular business at hand. And that goes for golf, too.

Twelve players will make up each team and captains have gone over the lists (and the handicap scores) in search of the very best talent available. After long pondering and thorough investigation the names of the contestants, subject to change with reports of bad score, are ready for announcement.

Hegner Leads Doctors

Dr. George P. "Whitman" and "How" Hegner has picked the team to represent the doctors. He expects to take on the best of the lawyer clan for during the last few weeks has been hitting par consistently. And when he hasn't hit par he has been one or two or three over and that doesn't make much difference.

Anchor man on the doctor team will be none other than Dr. W. J. Frawley, hefty clouter of no mean ability. The others, all of whom are considered better than even matches for the city's legal minds are Dr. D. M. Gallagher, Dr. E. W. Cooney, Dr. E. F. McGrath, Dr. J. B. MacLaren, Dr. A. R. Rector, or Dr. E. H. Brooks, Dr. E. F. Melke, Dr. Carl Neidfeld, Dr. E. L. Bolton, Dr. J. L. Benham, and Dr. Albert Leigh.

The lawyers named 12 players, at least three or four of whom are rated mighty good golfers. There's Gordon Derber for instance, and Heber Pelkey and A. H. Krugmeier, whom the lawyers say can beat the tar right out of any M. D. or dentist that comes up the pipe.

But be that as it may the M. D.'s don't think much of several other lawyer golf stars, Burt Manser for one, Frank Winkler for another, Ray Lohr, or District Attorney Stanley A. Staidl. Lawyer Bob Joyce is a question to the M. D.'s and they respect Judge Fred V. Heinemann because they might get hauled into court some day for a traffic violation or something with the judge on the bench. And wouldn't that be too bad.

The remainder of the lawyer team shows Paul V. Cary, Sr., Homer Benton and probably Roger Rutup. Just when this dinner will be staged is undecided, according to the lawyers. It seems the doctors have to go to school after their match Thursday and the lawyers, who claim they have learned all that was necessary, have agreed to put off the eats until a later date.

STRONG FIELD SEEKS WOMEN'S GOLF TITLE

Upper Bracket Indicates Hard Fight for Mrs. George Tyson

BY PAUL MICKELSON

Associated Press Sports Writer

Highland, Park, Ill. (AP)—Mrs. George Tyson, the queen of western golf, found herself closely hemmed in by a smart field today as she began defense of her western women's golf championship over the billowy fairways of the Exmoor country club.

Her first rival in the match play battle was Mary Elizabeth Ford, a rising young star from Kansas City, whom she was expected to overcome but crowded out of the championship with a 10 to 3 victory.

At least six stars, who could and might lose her out of the title battle without causing any surprise among the galleries. It was probably the most top heavy upper bracket in the tournament's 29 years of play.

Among the serious contenders wedged in the upper bracket were Mrs. O. S. Hill of Kansas City, 1929 champion, Mrs. Gregg Lifter, Los Angeles 1929 finalist; Virginia Van Wile of Chicago, one of the nation's top ranking stars; Jean Armstrong, another Chicago star of first rating; and Mrs. Charles Dannehy of Chicago, the former Virginia Wilson who was runner-up in 1928.

One of the most formidable rivals for the crown now worn by Mrs. Tyson, however, headed the lower bracket—Mrs. Leona Pressler of San Gabriel, Cal., who captured the championship medal yesterday with a par 9 to prove that she was once more on the game that carried her to championship in 1927 and 1928. Mrs. Pressler was a big favorite to wedge into the finals because of the apparently easier bucket but she had to wait until she was in the final round, when she was right at home over the course by shooting an 80 to finish in a second place tie with Miss Van Wile in the qualifying round yesterday, and June Beebe, women's western open champion.

Tulsa, Okla.—Eddie (Kid) Wolfe, Memphis, Tenn., and Louis Avery, Tulsa, drew, (10).

Sioux City, Ia.—Carl Wells, Omaha, outpointed Ernie North, Waterloo, Ia., (8).

Salt Lake City—Manuel Buitner, Tampa, Fla., and Joe Cortez, Boise, Idaho, drew, (10).

M. V. MAILED OUT GRID APPLICATIONS SOON

MILWAUKEE—Orders for season and individual tickets to home games on the 1934 Marquette university football schedule will not be received until this month, after Stanley Lowe, director of ticket sales, has mailed several thousand ticket application blanks to Marquette alumni and sports followers.

Under a plan announced by Mr. Lowe, purchasers this year may buy a season ticket for Marquette's five home games for $7.50. Season ticket holders will be given preferred seating in the Hilltop stadium.

The ticket charge for individual home games this fall will be: Oct. 2, Lawrence, $1.50; Oct. 9, Ripon, $1.50; Oct. 30, Mississippi, $2; Nov. 7 (homecoming), Washington and Jefferson, $2.50, and Nov. 21, Creighton, $2. Purchasers of season ticket, therefore, will save $2.

ALFALFA BILL CALLS FOOTBALL A FIGHT

Oklahoma City (AP)—The call of the gridiron isn't even a whisper to Governor William H. (Alfalfa) Bill Murphy.

Commenting on the annual revival of interest in football, the governor, who brought about curtailed athletic appropriations at Oklahoma's colleges said:

"There is not much difference between a football game and a common fight. I won't go to any games. If a man is not busy and wants to be bored he should attend a football meeting."

In his first message to the state legislature Murray said if athletics appropriations were not reduced he'd veto them.

With their funds cut about in half, sports departments of the University of Oklahoma and the Oklahoma A. & M. college were preparing today to whip teams in shape for Big Six and Missouri Valley conference competition.

WILLIE TURNESA IS CADDIE CHAMPION

New York (AP)—Golf just natural to the Turnesa family. For the last several years Joe, Mike and Phil, all of the Elmford club, have carried on in the national and local tournaments. Now comes sixteen-year-old Willie with the Metropolitan caddy championship. He shot 53 holes in 153 at the Ardsley club to win the title yesterday.

FIFTEEN NEW COACHES TO START IN EAST THIS FALL

New York (AP)—Fifteen new head football coaches take up their jobs in the eastern sector alone this year, faced with unusual difficulties arising from a year of athletic unrest.

The turnover, representing approximately 20 per cent of the 71 colleges and universities canvassed by the Associated Press, is the largest on record in the east. It is conspicuous for the reason that the shifts involve such outstanding institutions as Harvard, Princeton, Pennsylvania, Navy, West Virginia and Rutgers. Thirteen head coaches, who took hold of their jobs in 1933, hold over for a second term.

No sharply defined causes caused the shake-up involving new coaching leadership for this fall. Veterans such as Bill Roper of Princeton, and Arnold Harward of Harvard, have retired, giving way to younger men of the same schools, Al Wittmer and Eddie Casey, Pennsylvania's drastic

BAY PACKERS WILL REPORT FOR WORK WEEK FROM TODAY

Green Bay Aggregation Seeking Its Third Professional Title

GREEN BAY—Three weeks from Sunday the Green Bay Packers start the chase after their third successive championship in the National Professional Football league. They will meet Jerry Curcun's Cleveland Bulldogs at the city stadium here in the first game of the season.

And in the meantime there is a hustle and bustle around the football corporation's headquarters such that comes only when the sound of the thud of the cowhide is just around the corner.

Report Sept. 1

Coach Lambeau is busy closing contracts with his men. There isn't much time left, as the squad has been ordered to report for the opening practice Tuesday, Sept. 1. In the meantime some of the "native" Packers are getting out a couple of times a week chasing the ball around. Included in this group are Jug Earpe, Whitely Woodin, Lavvie Dwyer, Verne Lewellen, Bernard Darling, Eudice McCarty, Jim Boy, Colin, Claude Perry, Arnold Herber and Coach Lambeau. Several of these players haven't signed as yet, but they are expected to be on the dotted line within the next week.

Three Additions

There were three additions to the fold late last week. Elmer (Red) Sleight, who made football history at Purdue, accepted terms for his second season with the national champions. Coach Lambeau thinks Sleight will be one of the stars of the league this fall.

Arnold Herber, one of Green Bay's most accepted players, like Sleight, was signed on his second year on the squad. Herber is a triple threat artist. The former West High star is being groomed as a punter and, under Lewellen's direction, he is picking up yardage.

Raymond Jannissen is a newcomer. He is a product of South Dakota, where he was an all Little Five conference tackle for two seasons. Jannissen is 6 feet 2 inches in height and he tips the beam at 210 pounds. Jannissen was signed on the recommendation of Wuer Englemann, who also hails from the "Jackrabbit" state.

17,864 SEE DEMPSEY K. O. TWO OPPONENTS

Portland, Ore. (AP)—A crowd of 17,864 fight fans paid $27,295.50 here last night to see Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight boxing champion, knock out two of four opponents, in an exhibition appearance.

Still carrying a little extra flesh, Dempsey nevertheless showed speed, and the power was not gone from his left.

He used his right to drop big Bill Hartwell, Boston Negro, for nine counts, and the left to the side of Hartwell's head to finish the first opponent in a total of a little more than one minute in the ring.

Denny Lennert of Portland stayed two rounds with the Manassa mailer. Lennert landed a couple to the jaw and made Dempsey extend himself of a time.

Having disposed of but three opponents in four rounds, whereas four had been provided, Dempsey agreed to go two more rounds with Bob Mariela of Portland, the fourth. Mariela stayed for both scuffles, although Dempsey staggered him once.

The former champion is billed for a third exhibition at Seattle tomorrow night.

Phil, all of the Elmford club, have carried on in the national and local tournaments. Now comes sixteen-year-old Willie with the Metropolitan caddy championship. He shot 53 holes in 153 at the Ardsley club to win the title yesterday.

COAST PITCHERS HAVE SHOWN WELL IN MAJOR LEAGUES

Vernon Gomez and LeRoy Mahaffey Turn in Stellar Exhibitions

BY EDWARD J. NEIL

SPINDLEY left-hander and a tall right hand sharpshooter, both from the finishing school of the Pacific coast league, are proving better and better arguments, as the season wears on, in favor of the fancy prices the west coast youngsters command in the major league baseball market.

There'll be another expensive crop added along the western seacoast this winter and the day after tomorrow of these two youngsters are enough to set either Connie Mack, leader of the world champion Athletics, or Joe McCarthy, Yankee pilot, bidding violently for their like with the throttles pulled wide on the money bags.

Consider the left-hander, Vernon Gomez, late of the San Francisco Seals, polished a bit last season in St. Paul, and now ace of the Yankee pitching staff. In a year when the Yankees could be better served by peppy Joe home to mope over his victims, Gomez has been the savior of many a good evening meal.

Wins 16th Game

Yesterday he turned in his sixteenth victory of the season, an 8 to 5 conquest of the Chicago White Sox that ran the Yankee winning streak to six, a new high for the team this season. He was wild in one inning, the third, when four passes, an error and a hit gave the Sox four runs, but Babe Ruth's big bat, ready with his thirty-seventh home run as well as four other important hits, made up for that. Lefty allowed the Sox seven hits while the Yanks were combining Al Thomas for seventeen in true Yankee style.

The right hander, LeRoy Mahaffey of Connie Mack's staff, turned in an even more stylish performance to win his fourteenth victory of the season against only two defeats. The 1929 great and his brother, Dave, limited the St. Louis Browns to give him while the A's were holding, Gray, George Goslin's twentieth homer cost Leroy a shutout.

Tigers Out of Cellar

Detroit pulled up out of the American league cellar and the White Sox were plunked to the bottom of the list as the Tigers nosed out Washington in a free hitting struggle, 6 to 5. The lead see-sawed until Alexander tripled to score the winning run in the ninth. The Tigers' lineup included the famous Brownie for four doubles, two triples, and a homer by Johnson while the Senators touched Elton Hogsett for 10 singles. The Tigers reached the heights of sixth place when the Boston Red Sox crumbled under Cleveland's pounding, 11 to 7, and fell back a notch ahead of Chicago.

Rain obliterated all but the battle of the New York Giants and Chicago for second place in the National league, and as for results were concerned, the doubleheader might as well have gone overboard to the Cubs' plied on Clarence Mitchell for five runs in the fourth inning of the first game and picked up three more to win for Bob Smith, 8 to 4. Bill Terry's first home run of the day, with two aboard in the first, got Smith off to a bad start but it meant nothing in the end.

In the second game, however, Bill hit another one, this time in the ninth inning with up a pitching tussle between Guy Bush and Freddy Fitzsimmons to give the Giants a 2 to 1 victory. Mel Ott hit his twenty-third round trip shot in the first game.

LeRoy Mahaffey, Athletics—Held Browns to five hits to win his fourteenth game of the season.

Eddie Morgan, Indians—Hit home run with two on base as Indians defeated Red Sox 11 to 7.

Bill Sweeney, Red Sox—Hit safely five times in six trips to plate as Red Sox were defeated by Indians, 7 to 11.

Bill Terry, Giants—Hit home run in ninth inning to give Giants 2 to 1 decision over Cubs in second game of doubleheader. Also hit homer in first game.

Portland, Ore.—Jack Dempsey, Salt Lake City, knocked out Big Bill Hartwell, Boston, (1); knocked out Dave McCrea, Tulsa, Okla., (1), and boxed two rounds with Denny Lennert, Portland, and two rounds with Bob Mariela, Portland, in 6 round exhibition.

Chaff 'n Chatter

By Gordon K. McIntyre

Softball

ANOTHER softball season is gasping its last dying breaths with a few of the clubs playing occasional games and the All Stars getting contracts preparatory to going to the state softball tourney at Oshkosh next week.

The season just closed saw three major leagues in operation, a total of 24 all together. Each team had at least 10 players and several had more so that perhaps 300 men and older boys competed. Certainly there was double that number when one considers all the play ground leagues and independent clubs.

At the end of the Industrial season, the two loops which comprise the group staged a play off, the various place winners playing each other. The Nationals won the city championship through the August Grand company and Co. D, won second place for the National league. The American loop won honors in all but one of the remaining games, taking five out of eight.

However, one thing developed in inter-league strife that is bad for softball. The spectators got all hot up over the game and as is customary when they do there were a couple incidents that did not smack of sportsmanship. And the errors in conduct may result in the inter league games being abandoned.

It seems too bad that the spectators have to get riled over little things the players may get angry over for the moment and then forget. This seeing someone else take your exercise for you and your exercising only your temper is great stuff.

Tim Hurst

A little old man, toothless and drawn wandered into the Post-Crescent the other morning and announced himself as Tim Hurst, one time major league ball player and umpire. To prove it he had cards and clippings and letters from persons connected with sports throughout the central west, all bearing recent dates.

The years have not been kind to Tim and he admitted he was picking up a bit wherever anyone would give it to him. But time was when he was ranking southpaw hurler and in the first ten years of the century was well known in baseball. He once played with George Mogriever, Appleton, at Indianapolis.

Ill in health as result of baseball injuries, Tim said he was on his way to spend his last years with friends.

Picked at Random

Manitowoc will have a semi-pro football team this fall—if some angel can be found to back the team. Plans are to play away from home until the Packers get through with their home games. If we remember correctly that's just about the time it starts snowing and getting cold.

Remember Sam Ogle who was on the mound staff of the Pords for a couple years? He's singing over various radio stations in the state. Sam's a baritone of more than ordinary ability.

Almost Sept. 1 and no announcement from Carroll college that Norris Armstrong will return as grid coach this fall. Most unusual! One of the greatest annual news stories of the year will be missed.

And now Manitowoc and Two Rivers have the amateur fight fever. The two cities will be able to stay at home for bouts hereafter for shows are going to be held regularly at the Hamilton Community building Two Rivers.

The eighth annual horseshoe pitching tournament, the third annual boys horseshoe tourney, and the first annual women's horseshoe tourney will be held at Milwaukee during state fair week. We've entry blanks on our desk for anyone who wishes to try their luck.

U. W. Grid Tickets

Application blanks for University of Wisconsin football tickets also have been received by the writer and may be had by grid fans for the asking. The Badgers play eight games this year, four at Madison and four on the road.

Joe Savoldi

Friend Oille Kueckle of Milwaukee's Journal interviewed Joe Savoldi the other day when the former Notre Dame griddle wrestled in Milwaukee. Oille says Joe finds the wrestling game on the level. Also says Joe is anxious to go into the boxing racket and will take part in a movie if they pay him enough.

ENGLISH GIRLS WIN NET DOUBLES TITLE

New York (AP)—Great Britain's great strength in women's tennis doubles once again has been exhibited on the American courts.

British players won the two doubles matches in the Wightman cup series. Yesterday the national doubles championship was won by the crack combination of Mrs. Eileen Bennett Whittingstall and Miss Betty Nuthall.

In 35 minutes Mrs. Whittingstall, who lost in the finals of the singles to Mrs. Helen Willis Moody and Miss Nuthall, England's No. 1 ranking player, defeated Miss Helen Jacobs of California and Miss Dorothy Round of England, 6-2, 6-4.

The British pair made as many earned points as they did errors, an average not often attained.

INDIANS BREAK SAINT WINNING STREAK AT SEVEN

Milwaukee Brewers Win Seventh Straight Victory, 10 and 2

BY WILLIAM WEEKES

Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—The latest winning streak of St. Paul's pace-setting Saints has been broken at seven, but they will have to lose several more than seven in a row before anyone starts to worry about them.

Good old fashioned earnest hitting yesterday gave the second place Indianapolis club a 10 to 6 decision over the Saints, reducing the lead of Albert Leifeld's club to a mere 13 games. Len Koenecke, the $75,000 young man, hammered out a home run and a pair of singles to help the attack along, and was assisted by Jonah Goldman, Tom Angley and Fitzgerald. In compiling 17 Indian hits, the Saints drove Oral Hildebrand out of the box in the first inning, but Prince led them to five hits the rest of the way.

Brews Win 7th

Milwaukee won its seventh straight victory, walloping Columbus, 10 to 2. The credit was due Caldwell, Brewer hurler, who held the Red Birds to six hits and never was in danger after the first inning. The Columbus support was no help to Al Grabowski and Brown, who divided the pitching, first errors helping the Brewers to three unearned runs.

Kansas City opened against Toledo with an 8 to 7 victory, but got a bad scare when the Hens roled for six runs in the eighth inning. The rally routed Herb Sanders, but Max Thomas put down the uprising. The Blues routed Pinky Shofner in the fourth when they jammed over five runs while Art Hobe contributed three hits and two runs. Dugas got three hits each of Kansas City, one of the latter's going for three bases.

Louisville ended a six game losing streak by defeating Minneapolis, 5 to 1. Ken Penner restricted the Millers to five widely separated hits, and his own error in the eighth kept him from scoring a shutout. Dutch Hoffman, with a double and two singles, headed the Colonel assault. Tom Sheehan and Young Ed Walsby while Art Hobe contributed two of Minneapolis' five blows. Penner's pitching stopped the hitting streak of Eddie Sickling at 22 straight games.

Before a large crowd, Little Chute snapped out of the slump that has been following it for the past two months and beat the first place Neenah team by a score of 8-2.

Vanderloop pitched superb ball for the Chuteers allowing three hits one walk and striking out eight men. The combined pitching of Koney and Fiske netted the Chuteers 13 hits while 5 went back to the dugout via strikeouts.

Ed Gullickson was the big gun for Neenah. Defensively he caught everything that came his way, some of the catches being nothing short of startling. Offensively he cracked out two of the three hits gotten by Neenah.

For Little Chute, La May and R. Versteegen led the batters, each getting three hits out of four trips to the plate.

"An announcement was made in the seventh inning that the game was being played under protest over Vanderloop's eligibility.

SIX GAMES CARDED FOR CARROLL ELEVEN

Vinc Batha to Coach Pioneers for First Time; Meet Vikes Twice

W AUKESHA—Coach Vince Batha, who will take over the reigns of Carroll college's football team this fall, succeeding Coach Norris Armstrong, Saturday announced he has completed the football schedule of six games, two with Lawrence college. The return game arrangements made with the Vikings will probably be adopted next year by Beloit and Ripon also, it was said.

Coach Batha explains that he has big shoes to fill in taking the position which for six years was held by Armstrong, former Center college star, who built the Pioneers' strength from mediocre class to supremacy in state college circles.

12 Veterans Graduated

Batha will work under a handicap in that 12 Carroll regulars graduated in June, leaving but eight veterans to carry the burden. Outstanding among them is Henry Ott, former Fond du Lac quarterback who saw regular action last year when injuries kept Earl Orlebeke, Sheboygan, out after the second game.

Others veterans are: Gallop, Lake Mills; Golomb, Oshkosh; Mehl, Milwaukee; Jansen, Niagara, Wis.; Zinn, East Troy; Thiel and Dilling, Oshkosh, Waukesha.

Several sophomores will get regular berths. Likely prospects are: Dan Shoreswood; Spude, Sturgeon Bay; Rothman, Milwaukee; Winchell, Waukesha.

The schedule:

Oct. 2—Northern college, here.

Oct. 10—Lake Forest, there.

Oct. 17—Lawrence, there.

Oct. 24—Beloit, here.

Oct. 31—Ripon, there.

Nov. 7—Lawrence, here.

Babe Ruth, Yankees—Had a perfect day at bat, including thirty-seventh home run, a double and two singles, to lead Yanks to 5 to 2 victory over the White Sox.

LeRoy Mahaffey, Athletics—Held Browns to five hits to win his fourteenth game of the season.

Eddie Morgan, Indians—Hit home run with two on base as Indians defeated Red Sox 11 to 7.

Bill Sweeney, Red Sox—Hit safely five times in six trips to plate as Red Sox were defeated by Indians, 7 to 11.

Bill Terry, Giants—Hit home run in ninth inning to give Giants 2 to 1 decision over Cubs in second game of doubleheader. Also hit homer in first game.

Portland, Ore.—Jack Dempsey, Salt Lake City, knocked out Big Bill Hartwell, Boston, (1); knocked out Dave McCrea, Tulsa, Okla., (1), and boxed two rounds with Denny Lennert, Portland, and two rounds with Bob Mariela, Portland, in 6 round exhibition.

CHAPMAN, REYNOLDS STAGE RACE TODAY

Chicago (AP)—That 100 yard foot race between Ben Chapman of the New York Yankees, leading base stealer of the major leagues, and Carl Reynolds, fleet White Sox outfielder, was up for decision today.

Chapman, who got Babe Ruth out of the barrel several weeks ago after other Yankee players in sprint races, and Reynolds, whom the White Sox believe is the fastest man in the American league, yesterday signed an agreement for secretary Harry Grabner of the Sox, to meet just before today's game at Comiskey park.

Ruth lost money betting on other Yanks, but backed Chapman to beat Dave McCrea, Tulsa, Okla., (1), and boxed two rounds with Denny Lennert, Portland, and two rounds with Bob Mariela, Portland, in 6 round exhibition.

OUTBOARD RACERS TO MEET AT GREEN LAKE

Green Lake—Five hundred dollars in prize money has attracted the outstanding race drivers from all over the country to the 75 mile marathon outboard motorboat race to be held at the Lawsonia Country club on Green lake this Sunday. The race which is being sponsored by the Wisconsin Boating Association and the National Outboard Association will be over a two and one-half mile egg shaped course which will give each spectator an excellent view.

The marathon which is the most popular outboard event because of the abundance of spills and thrills it provides, is expected to bring an enormous crowd, especially since there are no other big marathons scheduled in the midwest for the balance of the 1931 racing season.

Red Woodworth, famous football star of the Northwestern university, Red won the Albany to New York race this year. He is entering three boats, piloting one himself.

Carl Koefler, veteran Wisconsin racer, and Fred Mikkelsen with Hans and Fritz, his prize-winning boat.

Pat Maloney, W. B. A. commodore will be the starter. The race will begin at 1:30 sharp. A clock start will be used.

The American Legion band of 60 pieces from Fond du Lac will furnish music and the Ripon boy scouts will assist in handling the traffic.

SUNDAY'S GAMES

New London 4, Tustin 3.
Appleton 19, Readfield 1.
Weyauwega 6, Shiocton 1.

LED by H. Buss, pitcher, the Appleton Merchants came to life Sunday as pounded out a victory over Readfield, 19 and 1. The team scored in every inning except the fifth. Four Readfield hurlers were pounded from the hill as the Merchant bats connected for 21 hits of various kinds.

Buss gave the Readfield clubbers two hits, walked four and struck out eight in the eight innings he worked. Werley then went on the mound for the last frame and gave three hits. At bat Buss rated perfect with a homer, triple and single in three trips. Buss was hit on the head by a pitched ball while batting in the eighth and knocked cold.

Four In First

The Merchants started their assault in the first inning with four runs. Pope, first man up tripled, R. Tornow was called out on strikes but E. Helms singled to score Pope. Laabs popped out to third base. King doubled and Helms scored and Bauman followed with a long home run.

One run was scored in the second, again in the third, in the fourth, in the sixth, and two in the seventh. The eighth saw the Merchants put the game away with nine runs.

Laabs singled, King walked, Bauman fanned, Bedford singled to score Laabs and King. Werley singled to score Pope, Tornow and E. Helms walked to force in Werley. Laabs singled to score Pope and Tornow and King cleaned house with a scorcher between second and third that went for a homer when the ball got away from the left fielder.

MIDDLEWEIGHTS IN MILWAUKEE TOURNNEY

Tait Littman Paired With Hamilton Jenkins, Denver Negro

Milwaukee (AP)—The first three bouts of a series to determine the world's middleweight boxing champion, a title relinquished by Mickey Walker, will be held at Borchert field tonight.

Tait Littman, the Cudahy protege of Ritchie Mitchell and a home town favorite, is paired in the final bout with Hamilton (Ham) Jenkins, Denver Negro. Clyde Chastain, Dallas, Tex., vs. Rudy Marshall, Stanford, Conn., and Tiger Thomas, Philadelphia, vs. Gorilla Jones, Akron, O., are other headlines on the program.

Each of the bouts is scheduled for 10 rounds with Littman, Chastain and Jones installed as the favorites by sport followers who have watched the workouts.

Chastain and Littman faced the necessity of dropping weight to get down to the 150-pound limit before weighing in before the commission this afternoon. The other three were reported by trainers under the required weight.

The elimination tourney idea was credited to Billy Mitchell, matchmaker for the Andler's fight club who arranged to bring it to Milwaukee against bids from several other cities.

BISHOP CLAIMS PROBE IS ONLY PERSONAL FIGHT

Cannon Charges Inquiry Is Under Roman Catholic Domination

Washington—(AP)—Bishop James Cannon, Jr., charged in a cable to London today that the Senate inquiry into the Anti-Smith campaign activities was a "purely personal attack by a vindictive Virginia Democrat and a Boston congressman under Roman Catholic domination," and not an attempt to frame remedial legislation.

The Senate campaign funds committee assembled in Washington today to resume the long trail into the use of funds by Bishop Cannon, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in heading the Anti-Smith drive in Virginia, in 1928.

C. Bascom Sloop, Republican national committeeman for Virginia and former secretary to President Coolidge, was called for today's special session. The meeting was arranged in order that Mr. Sloop might leave the country to resume his duties as American commissioner at the Paris Colonial exposition.

Chairman Nye of the Senate committee, was confident as he prepared for examination of more than a score of witnesses called for this week, that the end of the inquiry into Bishop Cannon was in sight.

Representative Tinkham, Republican, Massachusetts, has complained to the committee that Bishop Cannon failed to obey the law requiring an accounting of the $62,500 given to him by Edwin C. Jameson, New York capitalist, in 1928, as chairman of the Anti-Smith committee in Virginia.

Mr. Sloop is the only witness on today's calendar. It is understood he will be questioned as to what he knew, if anything, of the relations existing between Bishop Cannon and Mr. Jameson, who also has been called by the committee.

Chairman Nye said he has not received the letter which Bishop Cannon announced yesterday in London he had written to him protesting against the hearings. The senator recalled that he informed the bishop last May that the hearings would be resumed at this time. As for the protest that the inquiry was illegal, the bishop of the bishop for a writ of prohibition.

ACCUSED MURDERER ADMITTED TO BAIL

Kenosha—(AP)—Donald McCauley, first mate of a Lake Michigan ferry, accused of the slaying of Arthur E. Millies, Milwaukee manufacturer, today had opportunity to obtain liberty on $15,000 bond while awaiting trial on murder charges.

McCauley has been held in jail here since the shooting on July 10, 1930. Circuit Judge E. E. Belden yesterday ruled on a motion of McCauley's attorney, A. L. Drury, that McCauley be admitted to bail.

The fatal shooting occurred when an automobile allegedly operated by McCauley rammed the Millies car at a highway intersection near here after Millies previously had aided its occupants in getting it out of a ditch. An argument followed the crash and Millies was shot.

A revolver which the state contends was used in the slaying, was found in McCauley's home. Drury intimated at the trial he would question closely Mrs. Katherine Lenzen and John Hoffman, state witnesses, both of Chicago, who stated at a preliminary hearing they were with McCauley when he shot Millies. Drury said McCauley had not owned the gun found in his home.

GROWTH IS INJURING BLACK OAK IN STATE

Madison—(AP)—Armillaria, a weird growth known as the shoestring fungus, is causing serious injury to black oak through Wisconsin. Literally strangling the trees to death, E. L. Chambers, state entomologist of the state department of agriculture and markets said today.

"Shoestring fungus develops as a saprophyte on decaying wood," Mr. Chambers said, "and when conditions are favorable for its development it penetrates living roots of growing trees and twines its shoestring-like growth around the roots until it strangles the tree to death."

"Because many trees throughout the state have been seriously weakened during the past two summers due to the unusually dry seasons, many insect pests and fungous diseases have been able to thrive."

Chambers said trees attacked by the Armillaria root rot and suddenly wilt, the foliage turning brown and the trees dying within a period of two or three weeks. The black oak is the principal victim but the fungus has also attacked red and white oaks. Many trees in state and city parks are succumbing to the disease, Mr. Chambers said.

Because it is beneath the soil and cannot be reached by ordinary treatments, the fungus is difficult to control, Mr. Chambers said. The entomologist recommended the burning of trees which are affected so as to prevent spreading of the fungus to nearby, healthy trees.

Blasting by dynamite not only destroys the shoestring growth but also disinfects the soil where the fumes of the powder have been blown into it, he said.

LIST DEPOSITORS OF FRANKLIN STATE BANK

Madison—(AP)—A complete list of depositors filed in circuit court by the state banking commissioner today revealed that more than 9,000 individuals, corporations, and business houses had money on deposit in the Franklin State bank when the institution was declared insolvent last June. Checking and savings accounts ranged from $1 to $25,000 and more than $73,000 in public funds were held. The account showed. A list of stockholders filed simultaneously showed holdings of $12,800 by William Schroeder, bank president, was the largest single block of stock.

NAVY DIRIGIBLE CAN FLY TO POLE OVER WEEKEND

Designed Speed and Range of New Ship Would Make Trip Easy

BY OSCAR LEIDING
Washington—(AP)—A flight to the north pole would perhaps be "just a week-end trip" for the navy's new and mighty airship, the Akron.

Such is the opinion of Rear Admiral W. A. Moffet, chief of the bureau of aeronautics, who says a polar flight "may easily be a possibility" because of the designed speed and range of the nearly completed dirigible.

"Of course, the Akron's place will be with the fleet," he says, "and any side trips could take place only after the ship has proved herself, and then only when not interfering with her primary, military operations."

"However, a week-end trip to the north pole may easily be a possibility and could be done with little effort because of the great radius of the ship—nearly 11,000 miles, at 50 knots, without refueling."

"When not used with the fleet, the Akron might be able to take part in exploration of hitherto inaccessible parts of the world."

"For instance, the late Theodore Roosevelt's exploration of the river of doubt in Brazil would be an infinitely simple matter to complete. There is particularly the unexplored region between Alaska and the pole."

The distance to the north pole by direct air line is approximately 3,875 miles from Lakehurst, N. J., the Akron's base.

Can Star Up 170 Hours
Cruising at 50 knots, the estimated still air range is 10,125 statute miles. It could make a north polar trip in upwards of 61 hours' time.

Way, As the estimated hourly fuel consumption at 50 knots, the ship would be able to stay in the air for more than 170 hours.

"Translated into commercial operation," Rear Admiral Moffet says, "dirigibles of such speed and range should go across the Atlantic in two and one-half days and make corresponding good time over the Pacific."

"Operation of the Akron will so thoroughly prove the value of airships that capital will be interested, and within the next four years there will be in operation commercial ships of 10,000,000 cubic feet capacity, compared with the Akron's 6,500,000."

"These ships are long-distance carriers and will have no other forms of transportation."

Cheaper Than Cruisers
From the military side, benefits of dirigibles to the United States were summed up by the admiral in saying that "not only are airships of great value to the fleet, but we can build them for less than a cruiser, can build them faster in time of war, and we have an inexhaustible source of helium."

He points out that a distinct feature of the Akron never before seen in dirigible construction will be the provision for housing, releasing, and taking on airplanes.

"This is of military value," he said, "but many have uses in commercial field for transferring passengers or mail."

He believes that with its two new airships, the nearly complete Akron and the projected ZRS-5, the navy "will have a singular opportunity to show what dirigibles can do."

The board will meet in the supreme court chambers at the capitol to listen to Cannon's plea for reinstatement by the supreme court. The Milwaukee attorney was scheduled to appear before the board last Friday but the meeting was adjourned because of the funeral of Mrs. Belle Case LaFollette.

CHAMPIONSHIP IN SHIN-KICKING IS HELD BY BRITISH

Members of Parliament Show Themselves Adept in This Activity

BY MILTON BRONNER
London—Having been licked by the Germans in the women's tennis finals at Wimbledon and by the Americans in men's tennis, golf, polo, yacht racing and heaven knows what else, the British have at last put forth a championship team in one sport—parliamentary shin-kicking.

And the British, strange to say, are not cheering about it. They have pinned no medals on their heroes. They have not hung them with garlands. They have not strewn them with laurels. They have given them no banquets. On the contrary, the press has viewed with alarm and the House of Commons has viewed with anger, not to say official disgust. The athletic heroes, indeed, have had to apologize for their triumphs.

Quaint Old Customs
And at that they did something no German, French, or American parliamentarians have ever equalled. When Frenchmen in the Chamber of Deputies get angry, they usually content themselves with making faces at each other and yelling at the top of their voices:

"Sale cochon!" Or "Sale vache!"

And then the President of the Chamber suspends the sittings to allow the temperature to cool off, because no self-respecting Frenchman can bear being called either a dirty pig or a dirty cow.

In the Reichstag, when the Communists and the Hitlerites get sore at each other, they sometimes make a motion as if they were going to mix it up, but their friends usually obligingly hold the horses back, so that no damage is done.

In the American senate some of the late solons have sometimes been seen to march down the aisle with the avowed intention of punching the other in the nose, but rich, red senatorial blood seldom stains the senatorial carpet.

Greatest Show on Earth
But the British team of shin-kickers give a much better show than all these pale Americans, French and German efforts. Being Labor members, the truly labored. Being members of co-operative societies, they showed what co-operation is. The captain of the team, so to speak, was John McGovern of Glasgow, one of that brave band of Clydesiders who give their fellow Labor member, Prime Minister MacDonald, such a pain.

McGovern was on his feet the other day asking questions. Some of them were deemed out of order, and the speaker arose. Now when the speaker rises, all members in the House of Commons must sit down. The thoughtless Mac kept on his feet.

The speaker told him to sit down. Nothing doing. "The speaker named" him for disobeying the ruling of the chair. Whereupon Premier MacDonald moved that McGovern be suspended from the service of the House.

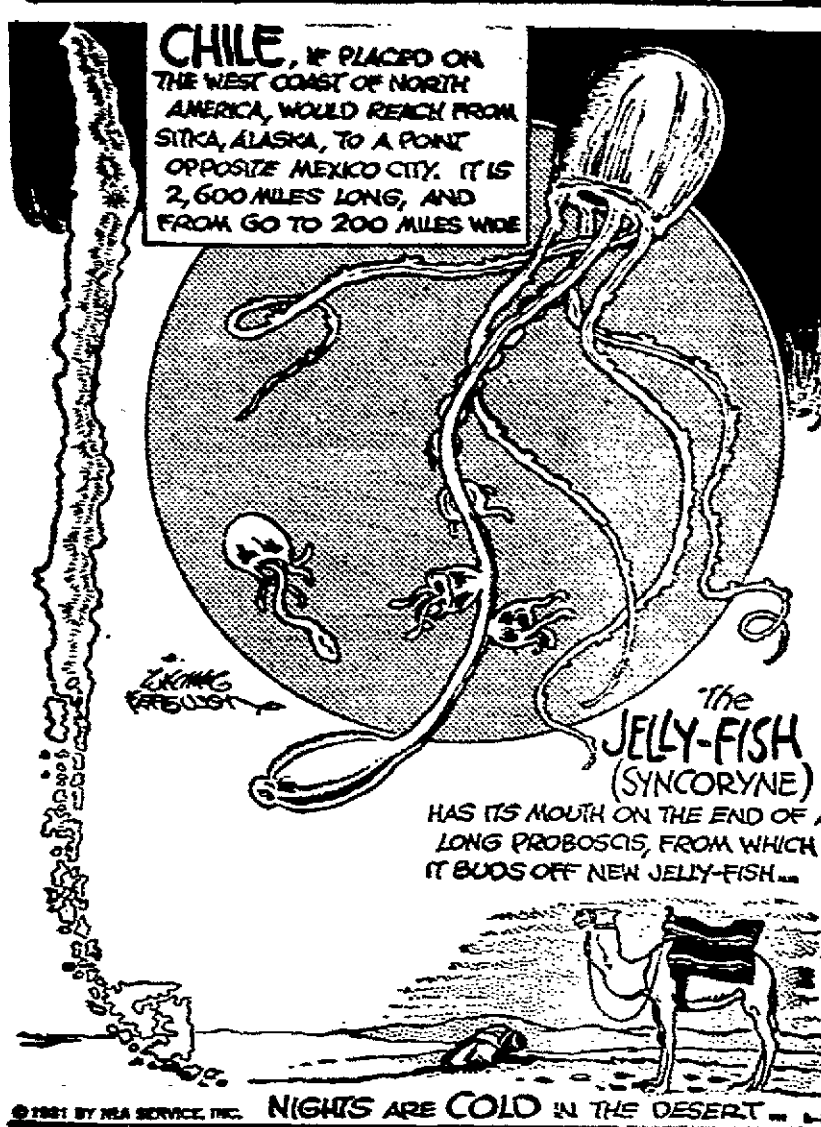

"That is about the only thing you can do," shouted Glasgow Mac at Premier Mac.

On! MacDonald's motion was carried 215 to 16. The speaker told Mac to leave. The latter was no longer on his feet. He was sitting down. To use the words of the veracious parliamentary scribe, "he was sitting in a rather negligent posture with hands folded in his lap."

The speaker asked the Sergeant-at-Arms to remove McGovern. The latter refused to be moved. Then the Sergeant-at-Arms, being a Keppel of the Colin variety and an admiral and a knight, turned over the rough stuff to his trusty attendants, the lads who wear boiled shirts, with gold chains around their necks.

They advanced, McGovern seized hold of the bench, the attendants seized McGovern, and his team seized the attendants. McGovern held fast and the House of Commons held its breath. There was a merry row. McGovern's team consisted of Jimmy Maxton, chief of the Glasgow Clydesiders, former teacher, chief of the Independent Labor Party and general rebel, Kinley, barber of Boogie, G. Buchanan, partner of the House, and J. Beck, ex-soldier, representing a London division.

Shins were barked, shirts were rumpled, hair was tousled, collars were ripped, and Beckett was propelled to the floor. In the meantime, the doughty attendants carried the kicking, squirming McGovern out of the House. The speaker announced that McGovern would be suspended for the balance of the session.

Apologies All Around
And the very next day the other members of the team arose in turn and apologized to the House. Jimmy Maxton in a pale voice, paler than his pale face, led the way followed by Kinley, Beckett and Buchanan, the latter adding he was especially sorry about the attendants because they came from very much the same class of society that he did.

Premier MacDonald said "the beautiful" sincere and frank statement made by Maxton might well be taken as a model. "Whereupon there were loud cheers from all political parties, because Jimmy the Rebel is probably in spite of that, the most popular man in the House."

Then Stanley Baldwin, leader of the Tories, and Lloyd George, leader of the Liberals, and both ex-Premiers, associated themselves with the sentiments of MacDonald.

The Bad Old Days
And out in the cloak room some young member ventured: "Well, they are a champion bunch of shin-kickers anyway." Whereupon one of the old boys retorted:

"Ah, you don't know what you are talking about! Back in 1901 when

I was a member, the Irish Nationalists refused to clear the House for a division. They proved too much for the attendants, whereupon the speaker created a precedent by calling in a strong force of police. The Nationalists were carried out, one by one, kicking and struggling. That

MILLIONAIRES TURN DOWN FINE BEDS FOR HAY IN BARN LOFTS

Business Chiefs Form Club for "Sleepers," and How They Like It

Chicago—Listen, all you farm kids who have no place to sleep but in the hay mow. Quit feeling sorry for yourselves.

Millionaires, the very ones you have envied because they have mansions and beds and cool linen sheets, are so envious of you that they have banded together for the luxury of relaxing in fragrant hay mows.

Eight of them in New York and Chicago, have formed the Society of Hay Mow Sleepers, the only purpose of which is to enable its members to satisfy their yearning to hit the hay. The unique organization is limited to business men who were brought up on a farm, those who have slept in hay mows, and those who never have but always longed to.

"Big Names" Belong
The following prominent business executives make up the roster of charter members: Mr. W. Jameson, executive vice president of the United Cigar Store company; J. D. Burger, president of the Reiss-Premier Pipe company, New York; Charles R. Walgreen, head of the drug store chain; J. Clark Coit, president of the United States Radio and Television Corporation of Marion, Ind., and Chicago; F. K. Morrow, vice president of the Gold Dust Corporation, New York City; Craig B. Hazenwood, vice president of the First National Bank of Chicago; Arthur Walsh, vice president of Thomas Edison, Inc., New York City, and Wheeler Simmons, president of the Utah Radio Products company of Chicago.

It all started recently when Mr. Coit was attending a party at the summer home of Mr. Walgreen near Dixon, Ill. There were more guests than beds, so Mr. Coit decided he wanted to sleep in the barn. A bed was prepared for him in the hay mow. He awoke the next morning, tremendously enthusiastic. The night in the hay had recalled most delectable memories of his boyhood days and he had slept like a child.

Hay More Restful
"Sleeping in a hay mow is more restful than in bed," he declared. To test his sincerity, his friends arranged with the porter to have his berth bedded with hay when he made a trip to New York later. Mr. Coit passed the test, sleeping soundly.

This incident awakened the desire in others to rest in the fresh-smelling beds, and the society was born, with Mr. Coit elected its first president by straw vote.

"This organization may be somewhat unique," said Mr. Coit, "but there are a lot of unusual organizations in this country and after all, many of our greatest pleasures are found far from the beaten path."

Meets in Barn
Meeting places of the society will be located in barns in various parts of the country, with plenty of hay for sleeping purposes. Two have already been established—one at the Walgreen summer home and the other at Mr. Jameson's farm in Antrim, N. H. Mr. Coit plans to equip a club barn at his birthplace in Missouri Valley, Ia. Each member is pledged to provide a similar barn, so that eventually every state will have its own.

There are no initiations or membership fees. The three classes of members are those who have slept in hay mows from necessity, those who slept in hay mows from choice, and those who never slept in them but always wanted to.

COUNCIL HOPES TO DISPOSE OF RAIL PROBLEM

Expects to Reach Agreement This Evening With Utilities

Kaukauna—Meeting this evening at a special session to act upon a resolution proposing covering of the old street car tracks on Law-st and Wisconsin-ave, the Kaukauna city council will probably accept the offer of the two street car companies. The Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. has agreed to turn in the amount of money necessary to do the work to the city. It is believed that the Green Bay Traction Co. will act likewise.

The old rails will be covered with asphalt, which will be one inch thick over the rails and taper out to a feather edge several feet from the tracks, according to plans drawn by F. M. Charlesworth, city engineer. The coverings on the tracks at present are removed in places where it is too high. Some of the old tar and stone covering on the track could be left there, it is believed.

If the work is done by the city, it will be carried out by Ray McCarthy, who will employ local men. The council hopes to employ a number of men on the project. With council approval this evening, work will start immediately.

Council members have been seeking to have the rails covered since service on the two lines was discontinued several years ago. A mixture of tar and stone was placed on the rails, but it became necessary to repair the covering each year. Becoming dissatisfied with the situation, council members decided on the new covering, although some members wanted to remove the rails. Part of the rails were removed in the downtown district, but because of the expense it was discontinued. The proposed covering will be guaranteed as long as concrete.

GRASSHOPPERS ARE STILL AT WORK ON CALUMET-CO FARMS

Start Attacking Alfalfa Fields—Many Crops Are Destroyed

BY W. F. WINSEY

Chilton—If anyone thinks all our grasshoppers have sailed across Lake Winnebago to Oshkosh, he is mistaken, declared a Calumet-co farmer recently, the remainder of whose crops are being cleaned up by the ravenous pests. He also declared that the hoppers were so thick that their weight broke the canvas carrier in his binder several times during the cutting of his grain. "All of our hoppers and recent additions are right here at home and together they are cleaning up our alfalfa fields," the farmer said.

While grasshoppers have done considerable damage to the crops in Calumet-co by cutting off some of the kernels of small grain just before harvest, stripping the leaves from alfalfa and sweet clover, and in cutting off the tassels and silk of corn in some fields so that pollination was impossible, the drought is the chief cause of short crops. Perhaps it is not for the drought of the past two years there would have been no shortage of crops and no grasshoppers.

The drought and grasshoppers working have reduced the yield of small grain in Calumet-co to less than 50 per cent of the normal average, corn to less than 30 per cent of the normal average pastures to zero, sugar beets to a 20 per cent prospect, hay including alfalfa by practically destroying the second cuttings to 25 per cent of normal yields, canning peas to 25 per cent cucumbers and beans to 10 per cent and potatoes and vegetable almost to zero.

A large percentage of the farmers were cutting their corn Saturday. Some were shocking up the bundles and others were putting them into silos. Most of the corn was very short, badly fired, and poor feed.

H. Schlenker, town of Chilton, threshed 1,000 bushels of grain last year, owing to the drought and grasshoppers he expects not more than 500 bushels this year. Harvesting 35 tons, he did better with his mixture of alfalfa timothy and clover. He expects to fill his silo with eight acres of corn.

He has plowed up his spring seeding of alfalfa and clovers and expects to plant emergency crop of oats and peas next spring to supply his animals with hay.

He is milking 15 of his 17 cows and getting 275 pounds of milk daily. Having no pasture for his cattle, and the loss of spring seeding of clover William Kielgas, town of Harrison owned seven acres of rye with a mixture of sweet clover and timothy recently as the rye is already about three inches tall he expects the crop to supply pasture this fall and again next spring. He has eight acres of corn that will not fill his silo.

ASSOCIATION HEAD PREDICTS FAILURE OF CABBAGE CROP

BY W. F. WINSEY

Phil Bixby, president of the Appleton Cabbage Growers' association has predicted that there will be no cabbage in the Appleton territory this season. His startling reply led to an investigation of the cabbage fields by the writer of growers.

The reason Bixby gave for his prediction of a failure of the cabbage crop was the drought, hot winds, and worm and grasshopper infestation of fields.

On inspection of the local fields, the writer found the cabbage shredded by worms, including the small heads; the heads in some fields rotting; and grasshoppers invading the fields and helping to complete the destruction of drought and worms.

The writer is convinced that Bixby is right in his prediction, and that nothing but a miracle can save the cabbage crop in the Appleton territory.

CORN CROPS ARE 15 PER CENT OF NORMAL YEARLY FEED YIELD

Grasshoppers, Hot Winds and Drouth Destroy Fields on High Land

BY W. F. WINSEY

An inspection of the corn crop in some of the townships near here on Sunday and conversations with farmers has convinced the writer that the yield of the crop which is now being harvested is not more than 15 per cent of the normal yearly yields of feed. Up to a month ago the growth of corn surpassed in every crop raised in past years in those townships. Now the only satisfactory fields are in the lowlands. High fields have been almost destroyed.

The change from the best corn crop ever raised in the territory to the poorest one in a month's time was caused primarily by the drought and hot winds of the last two weeks in July and the first two weeks in August. Another agency contributing to the disaster are millions of grasshoppers.

The drought and the hot winds burned up the corn, stalks and leaves in the majority of the fields and left much of the corn too short to cut with a corn binder. After trying a binder some farmers gave up the job and turned their cattle into the fields.

As it to make the destructive work complete, grasshoppers covered the fields, and attacking the tassels and silk prevented the pollination necessary for the formation of ears. The hoppers are now at work destroying the few ears that survived their first attacks, gashing the stalks and riddling the leaves.

As a result of drought and grasshopper damage to the corn crop the average silo will be less than one-quarter filled this fall and some of them will be almost empty.
